CONNOLLY GIRL AIDE ON STAND

Tells Jury of Mystery Packets Locked in Safe

Twice a month—two or three days after each payday—mysterious envelopes with money were handed to the secretary of John Patrick Connolly, then clerk of Suffolk superior civil court, and were placed in the safe in his private office.

Soviet Capture Of Viipuri Near

HELSINKI, March 5 (AP)—Heavy fighting was in progress today in the outskirts of Viipuri, but Finnish sources maintained Soviet troops had not entered the city proper.

That Russian occupation of the ruined city was imminent was accepted by most observers, however.

Reds Capture 3 Towns In Drive on Viipuri

MOSCOW, March 5 (INS)—Capturing three towns, Heijalahti, Viijoki and Muhulatti, on the eastern shores and the island fortress of Uraansaaari, Soviet troops have succeeded in crossing the ice of Viipuri bay despite heavy defensive fire, a Russian war communique stated today.

Other War News on Pages 11 and 12

This was testified to in superior court today by his former private secretary, Miss Catherine DeCoursey of Huron ave., Cambridge, second state witness in the trial of Connolly and William T. Conway for alleged extortion and conspiracy to extort.

The two men are on trial before Judge George E. Leary and an impaneled jury on indictment charges that they extorted money from Connolly's employees in the clerk's office on threat of losing their jobs.

LENT HIM MONEY

Miss DeCoursey, a brunette who wore a dunoon-hued outfit on the witness stand, said also that Connolly borrowed money from her, after inquiring if she had some friv in the office who would make him a loan "for his personal use." The witness said she worked for Connolly in the campaign for the clerkship, and after his election he appointed her his private secretary. After Connolly took office, she said, Conway was a visitor almost every day, had access to Connolly's private office and sometimes used the telephone.

The envelopes, she said, were handed to her twice a month, following the semi-monthly pay days, by John J. McCarthy, former principal clerk.

TALKED OF COLLECTING

There were a safe and two large vaults in Connolly's office, the witness testified, and in addition to Connolly and herself, access to the safe and vaults were available to Miss Martha Friel, John McConnen, first assistant secretary, and sometimes to Edward Kelley, an assistant clerk.

But the box in the safe, in which she deposited the envelopes, was accessible only to her and Connolly, Miss DeCoursey said.

"At some time did you have a conversation with Connolly about collecting money from employees?" she was asked by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle.

There was a defense objection which resulted in a half-hour conference, but at its end Miss DeCoursey was allowed to answer—and she said yes.

Then she testified she had a

SLIPPERY GOING—As New England is hit by severe rain and sleet storm, Boston's suburbs suffer . . . and here, a Milton street, dangerously coated with ice, is a hazard to autoists and pedestrians. Limbs of trees, strained under the weight of clinging ice, add to the danger.

Snow to Increase Road Peril; Sleet Damages Big Area

Possible snow flurries today threatened to increase the ice hazard on Boston and New England highways already rendered treacherous by the destructive and costly sleet storm now reported howling well out to sea, with its center east of Nantucket.

Heavy fog off the coast tied up Boston harbor shipping and held a fleet of barges and fishing vessels at anchor off Cape Cod canal.

An advance forecast from the weather bureau here predicted diminishing cloudiness late today and clear skies tomorrow, with the wind swinging to the north and temperatures falling.

The coating of ice transformed the countryside in and about Boston into a "winter wonderland," but burdened the limbs of trees so heavily that many of them collapsed over power and phone wires, and across highways.

In many towns volunteer firemen were called out at dawn by blasts on the fire alarm only to find they were wanted to chop streets clear.

WIDE AREA DAMAGED

The damage done by the sleet storm extended all the way from the north Atlantic seaboard to the Great Lakes region.

Cold rain lashed Boston and saved the city proper by half a degree in temperature from the "froze" which sheathed the rest of New England in ice. In the suburbs, particularly to the south and west, power, light and telephone wires were broken, lights were out, trees were blown down and streets were flooded.

The glaze of ice made driving so hazardous in parts of the metropolitan area that motorists abandoned their cars. Limbs of trees, overburdened by ice, were hanging low in the streets, threatening momentarily to fall in the paths of cars.

As wind and rain swept Columbus ave., South End, Beatrice Bester, 24, was critically injured by a hit-run auto. Her name is on the danger list at City Hospital. She has a fractured skull and severe head cuts.

Spectators stopped a Woburn motorist and told him his car struck the girl. He made a report at the Warren ave. police station but denied his car was involved in the accident, which occurred in front of the girl's home.

F. D. WON'T RUN, SAY 3 SOURCES

President Roosevelt has determined not to run for a third term, and will not even allow himself to be drafted, the Boston Evening American was told today by three unassociated and reliable sources.

From the same sources, and in the same connection, it was learned that Roosevelt first definitely gave that assurance to Postmaster General James A. Farley immediately after the Jackson Day dinner, and has repeated it to him several times since.

Likewise, it was learned that Farley with this encouragement, has talked with 10 Massachusetts Democratic leaders in the last four weeks and has impressed upon them that he is a bona fide candidate.

Further, he has given them his word that he is in the fight until the last vote is counted.

At the same time, persons high in Farley's counsel have informed New England Democrats that Roosevelt would have a difficult time of it if he did decide to run.

Farley himself, it is known, claims that he can carry most of the New England states and more in the South than the South's favorite sons.

He is certain, he has told intimates here, that he has the delegation of West Virginia in his "vest pocket" and that if it came to a showdown the postmaster-general would receive the nod.

The Southern States, it is contended, have received more than "a fair shake" from both Roosevelt and Farley in the past seven years. As to the religious issue, Postmaster General Farley is understood to be assured by sage advice that it will not enter into the attitude of the southern states toward his candidacy.

ALLIES HALT 2 ITALIAN SHIPS WITH NAZI COAL

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Two Italian steamers loaded with German coal for Italy already have been detained by the allied blockade forces, Ronald H. Cross, minister of economic warfare, told the House of Commons today.

Cross said that any German coal now exported from Rotterdam to Italy was subject to seizure as a prize of war and added that such exports "now have ceased."

The British action followed closely on publication of Italy's vigorous protest against the blockade, which said it endangered the "economic and political relations" of the two countries as established by the Italian-British accord of April 16, 1936.

Seventeen Italian ships have been loading coal at Rotterdam. Six sailed for Italy yesterday and the others were ready to get under way. (An Amsterdam dispatch said four more of the Italian ships sailed today.)

Italian anger over interference with her coal imports was fanned by the fact the nation is dependent on foreign fuel sources.

Of the 11,000,000 tons of coal imported by Italy last year 60 per cent came from Germany. Though the two nations have a common frontier, insufficient rolling stock is available for transportation of much greater coal supplies at present.

Suitor's Music Won Heart of Bette Davis

LITTLETON, N. H., March 5—Blonde Bette Davis lost her heart to Arthur Farnsworth's music, the Boston Evening American learned today, as intimates continued to insist that soon the couple will be married.

SAYS DENTIST ATTACKED HER

Charging Dr. George F. Winchester, dentist, of Dorchester, twice assaulted her, Helen K. Curley of Roxbury today pressed suit for $20,000 against him in superior court today. The girl, a New York script reader, shown at court today.

GIRL ASKS $20,000, ACCUSES DENTIST

Based on a charge that Dr. George F. Winchester, prominent Dorchester dentist, twice assaulted her, Miss Helen K. Curley of Roxbury, New York script reader, is suing him for $20,000, it was revealed today when the case went to trial.

Papers and documents in the case, being tried in Superior Court before Judge Allen G. Buttrick and a jury, have been impounded since the action was filed, it was learned. On the witness stand today, Miss Curley, whose parents live in Savin st., Roxbury, testified the dentist attempted to drag her into his room at the Copley-Plaza Hotel on March 6, 1937, and punched her repeatedly in a taxi cab.

On the following day, she said, she went with him to a doctor in Bay State rd. because her ear had been injured by the punches.

LEAPED FROM WINDOW

Dr. Winchester, she said, had apologized for what he termed his "atrocious" conduct the night before, but at the home of Dr. Sheridan in Bay State rd. she was compelled to jump from a window to escape the dentist, and then beg a drive from a passerby for carfare home, she testified.

Her flight from Dr. Sheridan's home, she said, was after Dr. Winchester had begged a drink from the physician, had attempted to pour another, had been admonished by the physician and then had refused to give up the bottle.

Miss Curley testified that there ensued a fast chase around the dining room table, with Dr. Winchester holding the bottle and Dr. Sheridan attempting to retrieve it. Since the assaults, she asserted, she has suffered from ringing in her ears, bad headaches and lapses in her sense of balance.

It all started, she said, when she visited Dr. Winchester's office on March 6, 1937, to have a loosened filling reset.

Dr. Winchester had gone to

From almost the first moment of their meeting, the film star and twice winner of the Academy Award "hit it off" with the 34-year-old stalwart and handsome assistant manager of Peckettson-Sugar-Hill, where Bette sought refuge during her spat with Warner Bros. last fall.

Today the story of their first evening together in the quiet New Hampshire hills was learned by the Evening American, and a very simple but romantic evening it was.

In his capacity as assistant manager of the Sugar Hill resort, the husky Farnsworth also fills the role of host and his mission is to see that the guests, most of whom are distinguished, are entertained.

PLAYS FAVORITE TUNE

After the evening meal on the first day at the resort, she and several other women guests were chatting quietly in the large music room when Farnsworth's 6-foot-1-inch frame came through the door.

The orchestra was off duty and Farnsworth walked over to the piano, sat down and began lightly to improvise.

From his improvisation he swung softly into "South of the Border," the song number which then was rapidly on the upswing to the top of the season's hits.

As he finished the number, Bette and the other women clapped hands in appreciation, and the group began to talk of songs.

Bette's favorite, she revealed, was "Stardust," and she knew just the tempo in which it should be done.

"I like it best, though, when it's played on a violin," said the blonde actress. "You like it with the violin," Farnsworth commented. "Yes," said Bette, "it sort of well, brings everything out."

"Oh," said the husky host.

WON BY HIS MUSIC

He walked over, picked up a violin and did "Stardust" for her in exactly the way she had described, and when he had finished, her eyes were wide.

But Farnsworth was not through yet. A little later in the evening he drove Bette and a few other guests through Franconia Notch and the hill country, and with the spell of the autumn night upon them, they began first to hum and then to sing. Eventually, however, they all dropped out to let Farnsworth carry it alone, and his very pleasing baritone did him no harm with Bette.

Thenceforth the couple were seen

BABY BOY'S DEATH STUNS TOBY WING

NEW YORK, March 5—Tragedy struck into the home of Dick Merrill, noted transatlantic flier, and his pretty musical comedy bride, Toby Wing, here today when their 11-months-old son strangled to death.

Mrs. Merrill had herself put her son to bed in his crib in the nursery of their Continental ave., Forest Hills, apartment, and had left the baby for less than an hour.

She returned to find him lying silent, face down in a tangle of bedclothes.

According to the story, Mrs. Merrill—the former blonde, blue-eyed dancing star of many a stage and screen musical show—was chatting with her husband in the apartment after putting the baby, Henry T. Merrill, Jr., to bed.

After Merrill left, she looked in on him once to be sure he was all right, then returned in less than an hour. The fold of a sleeping suit had become twisted about his neck, and the child was dead.

Mrs. Merrill called Queens General Hospital, and sent a message to her husband, who cancelled an Eastern Air Lines flight he was to have piloted today.

The mother was stunned and near collapse.

Dick Merrill's correct name is Henry T. Merrill; but "Dick" is the name under which he became famous as an aviator, twice conqueror of the Atlantic, the only man to make eastward to westward non-stop flights.

Merrill and Toby Wing were secretly married in Mexico in the summer of 1933; their marriage was revealed in March last year. The baby was born March 18 in the Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

"I'll make a pilot of him," Merrill said proudly at that time.

Salem Mother Pays Back Bandit Sons' Bank Loot

GEORGETOWN, March 5 (AP)—A weeping mother entered the Georgetown Savings Bank today and insisted upon paying Treasurer Lewis H. Giles $908.30.

That, explained Mrs. John O'Brien of 25 Wisteria st., Salem, was half the amount taken when her sons, John, 21, and Robert, 19, with two other youths held up Giles last July. The four now are in the Concord Reformatory.

When Giles explained that the bank's loss had been covered by insurance, Mrs. O'Brien instructed him to send the money to the bonding company, the Fidelity and Deposit Co., of Maryland, adding that she and her husband, a leather merchant, "did not want to owe anyone" and that in time full restitution would be made.

"They were only children," she told the treasurer.

When arrested, the four told police they were armed only with a toy pistol and that they used the money to bet on horses, take airplane trips and purchase clothes.

Woman Held in Silk Stocking Ring Case

A pretty brunette, Mrs. Evelyn Miller, 38, of Hampstead rd., Jamaica Plain, was arraigned in Roxbury District Court today as the first woman member of an alleged ring of thieves accused of looting a downtown department store of silk stockings valued at $2395.80.

Sobbing as police charged her with receiving stolen goods, she was held in $1500 double surety for hearing March 13.

Arraigned with her and held in the same bail was Francis P. Raymond, Huntington ave., Roxbury, a taxi driver.

Police charge he acted as a go-between for Patrick J. Wallace, long time employe of a downtown store who is now held in $5000 bail on a charge of stealing the stockings.

It is charged that Raymond got the stockings from Wallace and then gave them to Mrs. Miller. She is charged with going around to beauty shops, dance halls and restaurants and selling the stolen hosiery.

Another alleged go-between, Morris Goldenberg of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, is at present held for the grand jury in $2500 bail.

Police are still seeking other alleged members of the ring, which they say was uncovered with the arrest of Wallace last Saturday.

He was arrested as he was leaving the store, in which he had been employed for 15 years. He had a bundle under his arm which was supposed to be a bed pillow. Police say they found a quantity of silk stockings in the bundle.

They had been working on the case for months after store authorities found a mysterious shortage in their silk stockings stock.

Dies as Son Succeeds Him

After his son had defeated five other candidates to succeed him as town clerk, a position he held for 38 years, Millard F. Charles, 86, of Reading died today.

He retired this year and his son, Norman P. Charles, ran against five others to succeed him in the office of Reading town clerk. He won in a landslide. It is believed excitement over his son's victory contributed to the father's death.

Fore River Loses Cruisers Bid

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The Navy today awarded a $35,980,000 contract for construction of the 10,000-ton light cruisers Columbia and Cleveland to the New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N. J. (The Fore River plant in Quincy was among those submitting bids for the cruisers but their bid was higher than the New York concern).

Initial funds for the cruisers were voted last year. They will be armed with 6-inch guns. The contract was at the firm's bid price of $17,990,000 each, subject to adjustments for changes in cost of labor and material during construction periods of 36 and 39 months respectively.

New Probe Opens In Wife's Death

TAUNTON, March 5.—District Attorney William C. Crossley and state detectives probed further today into the maze of marriages, allegedly "affairs" and rivalries ground of Mrs. Minnie Hathaway who died mysteriously last week. In particular, the investigators sought more information regarding Edward Blake, the Spanish War veteran who died in Mrs. Hathaway's arms while the two were propped on a lonely Assonet road, five months ago.

Dentist's Wife Kills Student and Self

HOUSTON, Tex., March 5 (AP)—A Houston dentist's wife and a dental college student were found shot to death in a park yesterday. Justice W. C. Ragan returned a verdict of murder and suicide, holding that Mrs. E. Thomas Bundy, 38, shot L. F. Wolfe, Jr., 23, and then killed herself. Ragan said Wolfe apparently had been lying with his head in Mrs. Bundy's lap. Wolfe had been shot twice in the head; Mrs. Bundy in the mouth. A pistol was near her hand.

Victor McLaglen Cleared of Charge

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP)—Victor McLaglen has been cleared of assault and battery charges contained in a suit filed by Richard Candrea, a musician. The court found for McLaglen in the action asking damages of $16,442. Candrea charged the film actor assaulted him in a fight a year ago.

FLURRY OF HOLDUPS

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, has ordered 125 extra patrolmen on night duty—about a 50 per cent increase—to combat a flurry of holdups.

HYLAND REFUSES SNOW LIST

George G. Hyland, commissioner of public works, today refused to supply to the city council names of persons suspected of having been on two payrolls during recent snow removal work.

Councillor James S. Coffey of East Boston introduced an order yesterday, which was passed, calling on the commissioner to reveal the names of suspects.

"The mere fact that a man's name has been reported for such a violation does not make him guilty," said Hyland today. "I shall not make any names so reported public."

"If, eventually, I find any of these men guilty of such practice I shall report to the city law department, with recommendation for criminal prosecution."

In regard to the charge aired by the council yesterday that trucks were working on snow removal and also for WPA aid.

"Such a situation is impossible. We have a master index of all trucks used and it would be impossible for trucks to be paid on both jobs. If persons making such charges were familiar with the system of checking we use they would see the fallacy in their arguments."

Mae Murray Sees Joy Ahead

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP)—Mae Murray, called a "fit mother" by a judge who awarded her $400 monthly from her ex-husband, David Midvan, looks forward happily to regaining custody of their son, Koran, 13.

The blonde star of silent films was radiant as she learned, in a modest Hollywood apartment, that her plea for money to support her son was successful.

"I feel I have been vindicated," she smiled. "All my hopes and struggles to regain my boy have not been in vain."

Superior Judge George Dockweiler ruled in the actress' favor yesterday, at the same time voicing censure of the Prince.

"It is most singular to note," he added, "that he (Midvan) would spend substantial sums for distant relatives and friends abroad. But yet with respect to his own flesh and blood he made no contributions for many years other than a few paltry dollars he gave his wife for his son's needs."

WIFE TELLS COURT HOW SHE LOST LOVE

The old, sad story of a wife who lost her husband's love because she was no longer pretty was related in Middlesex probate court today by a frail, soft-spoken, bespectacled little woman.

Mrs. Dorothy J. Bowman of Natick told Judge Joseph W. Monahan that the first eight years of her marriage to Albert Bowman had been "ideally happy."

Then, early in 1937, Mrs. Bowman testified, her husband began to avoid her presence and refused to speak to her.

"When I came into a room he would get up and go out," she said.

On May 5, 1937, she said, she demanded a showdown.

TELLS OF 'RIVAL'

"He told me had someone else," she explained. "He told me there was another woman he loved better than me. He said he didn't want me any more."

"He said my hair was getting gray, and I looked dowdy. He said he didn't want me."

Mrs. Bowman was granted her divorce and $30 a week for the support of the couple's two children, Robert, 6, and Barbara, 4, of whom she was given custody.

Judge Monahan asked Carl E. Carlson, Jr., of Somerville—who admitted he weighed 170 pounds—if he wasn't able to defend himself against his wife, Dorothy, who weighed only 140.

Carlson had applied for a divorce on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

THEN SHE LEFT

"My wife used to stay out nights," Carlson said. "Once she came home at 3 a. m., and when I asked her where she had been she told me it was none of my business and picked up a plate and let it fly."

Then, he said, she went right out again and he didn't hear from her until a week and a half later, when he got a postcard from New York.

When she wished to emphasize a point in her conversation, Carlson said, his wife would pick up "anything she could lay her hands on" and throw it at him.

Another feature of his wedded life, he said, was when his wife moved out of his house and took an apartment in Park drive, Boston.

"I often pleaded with her to come back," he testified, "but she told me she was doing all right by herself."

Judge Monahan took the case under advisement.

Elope Threat Wins Wedding For Girl, 16

Threatening to elope to Rhode Island, unless their parents consented to their marriage, a 16-year-old Wrentham schoolgirl and her sweetheart, aged 20, today won their battle to get the consent and a marriage license at Newton city hall.

The girl is Viola M. Nute; the bridegroom, Hazen E. Jarvis, of 15 Hale st., Newton Upper Falls.

Mrs. Margaret Sberna, Jarvis' mother by her first marriage, revealed today that she had given her consent and had persuaded Mrs. Laura Nute to consent to the young people's wedding.

"They said they would elope," she said, "and I thought it much more sensible for them to be married at home with our consent. I objected because I think they are too young, but when I saw they really meant it I decided to give my permission."

Young Jarvis is employed as a farmer at a Dover estate. Miss Nute recently left school at Wrentham. They met at a party.

Convinced they were "for each other" they asked consent from their parents to get a marriage license. Being under age, consent was necessary before a license could be issued.

Rev. Howard Govey of Newton Upper Falls Methodist Church will perform the ceremony Thursday at 8:30 p. m. at the bridegroom's home.

What! Too Much California Sunshine?

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP).—California's famed climate has backfired.

The Chamber of Commerce Agricultural department reports that because of "perpetual" sunshine "the outlook is not so favorable for the cold-loving deciduous fruits," such as peaches and apricots.

A young Carver school teacher, dismissed from her job two years ago, was back at her desk today and two Winthrop selectmen who had fought for the present bus transportation in that town were voted out of office, in highlights of elections in 108 Massachusetts towns.

It was on Brookline that the spotlight turned today as voting machines were tried out for the first time in Bay State history in a town election.

The machines were tested in but one precinct, although bitter battles for selectmen and school committee were expected to draw a large percentage of the town's 25,181 registered voters. Five candidates, including Chairman Samuel F. Blanchard, seek posts as selectmen. The others are Edward Dane, Daniel C. Rollins, Jr., Frank J. O'Hearn, and Daniel J. O'Neil, Jr. Miss Florence Kaski, who for two years has battled to regain her teaching post in Carver, was ordered to report back for work today.

The board of selectmen took re-election action as soon as elections results had been counted and it was found that Russell Shaw, opponent of the teacher, had been defeated by Bradford Cole, Miss Kaski's champion.

In Watertown, Republicans won a clean sweep, turning out of office many Democrats.

H. Herbert Applin defeated Patrick Menton, Democrat, in the latter's quest for a second term as selectman.

REPUBLICANS WIN

Other Republicans who swept Democrats out of office were the following: George B. Wellman, town clerk; Herbert O. Berry, John Gregory and Winthrop G. Rockwell, members of the school committee; William H. Ecker and Whitfield W. Johnson, library trustees; Andrew Bradford, assessor; Harold Spdw, park commissioner, and Dr. Lewis Mantangolo, board of health.

In Arlington, William O. Hauser defeated Miss Anna B. Callahan, citizens' candidate, for the board of assessors by 300 votes. Hauser's term will be for three years. A two-year term was won by Arthur W. Sampson, who defeated Roger W. Homer.

The three present members of the school committee were re-elected, defeating six other candidates. They were Chairman Joseph J. Bevins, Therese N. Turner and Clement J. Beaudet.

3D TERM FOR DAVIS

Ernest W. Davis, chairman of the board of selectmen, was returned to a third term, winning in all 14 precincts. William F. Davis, Jr., was chosen moderator and Loren W. Marsh was re-elected to the board of public works.

In Braintree, a smashing victory was won by Norris H. Pinault, who sought re-election as assessor against four candidates.

Henry H. Storm was re-elected selectman and a member of the board of public welfare. Alice N. Stevens was re-elected to the school committee, with Herbert C. Boardman chosen as a new member. Dwight Chandler won another term as member of the board of health.

BETTS WINS IN BELMONT

In Belmont, Charles R. Betts was elected selectman. Peter Stengel and Mrs. Gwendolyn K. Nicels were elected to the school committee. By a vote of 1714 to 1579, residents recommended to the selectmen the issuance of a permit for a moving picture to operate daily and on Sundays.

The Winchester election saw election of Raymond S. Wilkins, personal attorney for Gov. Saltonstall, as town moderator.

Marshall W. Symmes and Benjamin R. Schneider were elected selectmen.

John F. Cassidy was elected an assessor and Edmond C. Sanderson a member of the water board.

2 Selectmen Lose

In Winthrop Bus Row

After months of bitter controversy over transportation problems, two Winthrop selectmen who favored the present bus system were returned to private life today—defeated by a 30-year-old attorney and a 23-year-old ex-selectman.

Walter G. Baker, present chairman of the board and the only one to fight the present Rapid Transit Bus Co., was re-elected with 2664 votes.

The new members were Timothy J. Mahaney, 75, fire chief 42 years ago, ex-selectman, ex-building commissioner and former street superintendent, who was drafted by friends again for public service. His vote was 2238.

The third member of the board was Thomas E. Kay, 30, who polled 2235 votes.

Defeated were Selectmen Ross Batchelder, former Legion commander, and David Belcher, who excluded Baker in granting a permanent permit to the Rapid Transit Co. at a two-man meeting 10 days ago. Belcher received 1800 votes and Batchelder 2127.

Other defeated candidates and

George W. Downie was elected town treasurer with 3384 votes to 1634 for Richard Rouillard.

Other town officers were unopposed.

Donald S. McLeod was re-elected town clerk with 3660 votes. Others re-elected were: William S. Abley, assessor, 4390; Carl E. Nelson, collector of taxes, 4488; Justin A. Duncan, 3869, and Joseph F. Haley, 3643, members of the planning board.

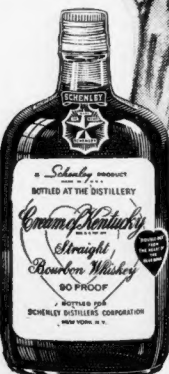

John P. White, Jr., a page at the state House, was unopposed for town moderator. He received 4045 votes. He takes the post held for 34 years by Joseph B. Davidson, retired.

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP)—Ginger Rogers of the movies has filed suit for a divorce from Lew Ayres it was revealed today. A superior court set March 13 as the trial date.

The complaint, charging desertion, escaped notice since it was filed under their true names of Virginia M. Ayer and Frederick Ayer.

Ginger and her movie hero husband were married in 1934, but they have been separated since early in 1938.

SCHOOL TEACHES THERAPY

Curing deformities and minor tubercular with ordinary light, heat and water, physical therapy, one of the world's fastest growing "baby sciences," is represented in Cambridge by a unique training school and clinic.

Today at the Massachusetts School of Physiotherapy, Prospect st., Cambridge, advanced technique and equipment is used, including a clinic which gives more than 700 free treatments annually.

Its director, J. L. Rudd, M. D., has devoted years of research and experiments to the principle that light, heat and water—scientifically harnessed—can alleviate nervous disorders, minor growths and muscular diseases.

He believes his school, which now has over 50 young men and women students, has now attained the status of "a new source of energy for the medical profession."

"Hundreds of hospitals are now including physical therapy equipment as a necessity," he said. "And to many physicians have finally realized that therapy is indispensable in many cases that they also add it to their equipment."

"Operation of the instruments is comparatively simple, but a profound understanding of their far-reaching effects and possibilities is paramount."

"The basic tools of the science are ultra-violet rays, treatment of muscular movement by scientific exercise and massage, "electric adjustment" of nerves, bones and joints.

"In most cases combined treatments get beyond outside layers of tissue and penetrate right to the bone, often the source of many ailments which would have to be cured by surgery."

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Mattress Vote Quiz Reveals Unknowns

More than 3000 of the 25,000 questionnaires sent to rooming houses and hotels by the election commission in an effort to purge the voting list of illegal voters had been returned to City Hall today.

Of that number, it was revealed 395 had been returned because the voter list at the rooming house, or hotel was no longer a resident there. Of that number about 50 were reported to have moved, or to have died, but the remainder were listed as "unknowns."

The largest number of "unknowns" was reported back from the Back Bay district where 175 such returns were made. In the West End 121 questionnaires were returned because the persons listed there were not known.

In the South End 68 such returns were made; in Charlestown, 25; in Roxbury, 1, and in East Boston, 1. Hancock st., West End, was the section recording the largest number of "unknowns," reporting 20. Causeway st. reported 10, Bullfinch st. 10, Dillway st., a short passage in the South End, 12, Montgomery st., Back Bay, 19, and Warren st., South End, 4.

NEW MINE CITY PERIL

SHENANDOAH, Pa., March 5 (AP)—The earth's surface sagged again today in this undermined anthracite town.

Slowly and undramatically, in scattered sections of a 16-block area, cracks in walls and pavements widened. The slow sinking of home and business houses ceased temporarily late yesterday after some shifted downward as much as 20 inches in the cave-in of old mine workings deep under ground.

Early today some residents of the cave-in section—most heavily populated part of this community of 21,000 persons—heard faint rumblings much like those that sent 3000 fleeing from threatened buildings early yesterday.

Coal company engineers, State mine inspectors and a local committee went into the honeycomb of diggings to seek the cause of the worst cave-ins in the history of Pennsylvania's great anthracite fields.

Townpeople have said recent mining in the old workings weakened the supports. Coal company engineers denied supports had been touched.

similar conversation with Principal Clerk McCarthy.

"A week after the conversation with Mr. McCarthy," she said, "I talked with Mr. Connolly at my desk outside his private office. I told Mr. Connolly that the people in the office were interested in a good-will fund to defray the expenses of tickets for dances and programs. He was determined that we should not have it. He said:

"No, no; I won't have it."

Q—After that, did you receive any money from McCarthy? A—Yes, I did.

Q—When did you start receiving money from McCarthy? A—Some time in the early summer of 1938.

Q—In what form? A—In a sealed envelope.

TELLS OF RECEIPT

Q—How often a month did you receive it from McCarthy? A—Twice a month.

Q—How often were you paid? A—Twice a month.

Q—When did you receive the envelopes? A—Two or three days after pay day.

Q—What did you do with those envelopes? A—I put them in the safe in Mr. Connolly's office.

Q—Did you ever take any of those envelopes out of the compartment? A—I don't recall.

Q—Were any of those envelopes left in the compartment when Mr. Connolly severed his connection with the office? A—I don't recall if I looked in there.

SUCCESSOR ON STAND

Miss DeCourcy testified she did not recall, either, any conversation with Connolly with reference to putting the envelopes in the compartment of the safe.

Q—Did you have a conversation with Mr. Connolly about Miss Claire Crowley borrowing money from the City Credit Union and giving it to Connolly? A—Yes, in the office. Mr. Connolly said he would like to have some money for his personal use. He wanted to know if some friend of mine in the office would loan it to him.

Q—Did you loan him money? A—Yes.

Preceding Miss DeCourcy on the stand, to open the testimony, was James F. McDermott, court employee for 34 years, who was elevated to Connolly's post on the latter's resignation.

Under examination, he stated that Conway visited Connolly's office two or three times a week. He added he never had seen Conway in the office before Connolly was elected or since he had resigned.

GIRL DUPE, CHARGE

In stating the government's case, Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle said he expected to prove that an assessment of 28 per cent of their first year's pay, had been levied on employees to raise a $20,000 to $25,000 campaign fund.

Doyle also declared that Miss Margaret Kennedy, an employee, was compelled to collect money from girl employees after she herself had paid over $200 to hold her job, allegedly to Conway.

The prosecutor said there was a man named Kelley who was approached by Conway and told he would have to pay $300 if he wanted to keep his job. Kelley paid the money to Conway in January of 1937, Doyle said.

He charged that in 1938 an election scheme was formed, and in 1939 several meetings were held which were addressed by Connolly. Doyle said that after one of the meetings Connolly conferred with McCarthy and it was agreed that each employee be assessed 28 per cent of his or her year's salary in connection with a campaign to finance Connolly's election campaign in 1940.

In January of 1937 the prosecutor said an employee named John Noonan went to Connolly's office in response to a telephone call and there found Conway with Connolly. He asked Connolly if he wanted him, according to Doyle, and was told "No, but maybe Bill does."

Conway, according to Doyle, said: "I'll see you at 5 o'clock," at which time he told Noonan if he wanted to keep his job he better raise $300.

Conway, the prosecutor said, told Noonan he would give him the names of others, but Noonan said he would raise his own money, and would have nothing to do with the others. Noonan paid, Doyle said.

"We'll produce books showing that from June 1, 1938, to June 1, 1939, there was a systematic collection of money weekly from employees of the office which ultimately was paid to Connolly," Doyle said.

Wife Saves Man From Monoxide

Trapped by monoxide gas fumes as he was working on his automobile in his garage, William H. Dick, 57, of Pearl st., Dorchester, was saved from death today by his wife.

She summoned Dr. Franklin Perkins of Dorchester ave., who in turn sought aid of firemen. A crew from ladder company 7, under District Fire Chief Edward N. Montgomery and Lieut. Frank D. McMackin, rushed to the Dick home with inhalators.

After half an hour the victim was restored to consciousness and pronounced out of danger. He had started the car in the garage and was overcome while making adjustments on it. His wife found him on the floor. Dick is a real estate agent.

A Gray Hair Preparation Easily Made At Home

Any man or woman with gray, faded, streaked hair can hide this handicap with a simple, easily prepared gray hair preparation that is being used with marked success by thousands.

Here is the recipe: Get from your druggist one ounce bay rum; one-fourth ounce glycerine; one box Barbo Compound. Mix these in one-half pint water, or your druggist will prepare for you at small cost. Comb this into the hair several times a week as directed. A rich, natural-looking, uniform color is given the hair. This shade can be maintained, too, for only a few cents a week. Being colorless, Barbo will not stain the scalp; rub off; wash out or affect permanents. Is not sticky or greasy and leaves the hair soft and glossy.

You will be amazed how many years younger you look when you hide all traces of gray hair. Better try the money-saving Barbo recipe today.

ONLY ONE S. STATION TRUSTEE

In a move on behalf of stockholders and public, the U. S. Interstate Commerce Commission today refused to approve appointment of two Boston Terminal Co. (South Station) trustees.

A third trustee, S. Lewis Barbour, won official ICC approval and was confirmed in his appointed position.

In a statement issued at its Washington, D. C., headquarters, the ICC ruled that it found "no justification for imposing on the federal corporation the expense of three trustees."

APPROVE ONE TRUSTEE

The Boston Terminal Co., which owns the South Station and leases its facilities to the Boston & Albany and New Haven railroads and their affiliates and subsidiaries, is now in process of reorganization in federal bankruptcy court.

Appointed with Barbour as trustee but not approved by the ICC today were Atty. Henry Mayo of Boston and John H. Moran, vice-president of the Boston Elevated railway.

The ICC found both Mayo and Moran "well qualified" but held that Barbour's previous experience as receiver and trustee in bankruptcy proceedings led to his selection as sole trustee in the present instance.

BANKS FAVORED ALL THREE

Trustees of the New Haven railroad, which holds 40 per cent of the capital stock of the Terminal Company, have contended for some time that only one trustee should be appointed for the company's reorganization.

A committee representing Massachusetts savings banks urged ICC ratification of all three trustees.

The office of Arthur P. Russell, New Haven railroad vice-president and general manager of the Boston Terminal Company, said a statement from Russell would be forthcoming later today.

6 Officials Indicted In Detroit Vice Quiz

DETROIT, March 5 (AP)—Six high public officials of Wayne County (Detroit), including Sheriff Thomas E. Wilcox and Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrear, were indicted today by Judge Homer Ferguson, sitting as a one-man grand jury investigating gambling and graft.

The indictments charged conspiracy to operate or permit the operation of disorderly houses, gambling houses, handbooks and policy games.

Action on Census Probe Delayed

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The Senate economic committee voted 19 to 5 today to postpone until next Tuesday action on a resolution suggesting that questions about personal income be eliminated from the 1940 census.

Chairman Bailey (D.) of North Carolina said the action was taken "because many members wanted to read the record of the hearings."

Sen. Clark (D.) of Missouri termed the postponement "a filibuster" against the resolution, sponsored by Sen. Tobey (R.) of New Hampshire.

Clark was reported to have advised the committee in a closed session that unless action was taken promptly, the census, scheduled to begin April 1, "will be over."

Sen. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan was quoted as saying that "if we keep on delaying like this we are going to have to rebuild all the jails in the country to hold the conscientious objectors to census questions."

LIVE WIRE DANGER

Hundreds of homes were cold throughout the night without power for heat or light. Portable illuminating apparatus was sent to hospitals in several communities where the electricity failed.

Live wires, carried down by ice and falling poles, increased the menace to motorists and pedestrians.

From New York to northern Maine, alet and heavy ice caused widespread devastation. Thousands of workmen were busy today on the task of repairing damage which in many cities equalled that of the 1939 hurricane.

More than 300 state highway plows and sanding machines worked unceasingly through the night to keep main roads open but from all sections, except Cape Cod, came warnings that ice formed rapidly over the sand.

Jews Hurt Battling Police in Holy Land

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Fourteen British police and a number of Jews were reported today to have been injured Saturday in Jewish demonstrations in Palestine against new British land laws.

One report said that an 18-year-old university student injured in a disturbance in Tel Aviv Saturday died today.

Reliable British sources said that "a certain number" of Jews were arrested in Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv. Curfews were imposed at Tel Aviv.

The clashes were reported by the British to have started when crowds gathered and threw stones at police stations. Police dispersed the crowds.

Rome Reports Many Hurt in Rioting

ROME, March 5 (AP)—Scores of Jews and British police were injured in demonstrations in Palestine late last month and in one case British cavalry with drawn sabres charged to disperse a crowd, a reliable informant just from Jerusalem disclosed on passing through Rome today.

The demonstrations were against new British laws restricting transfer of land from Arabs to Jews, announced by Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald in Commons, Feb. 28. They occurred in at least three cities.

The largest was at the Jewish city of Tel Aviv, with more than 15,000 Jews taking part. Some erected barricades across the main thoroughfare, Ezer Yehuda. Police tried unsuccessfully to disperse the mobs, first firing in the air and then at the feet of the demonstrators. Finally cavalry was summoned. It charged with sabres drawn. About 140 Jews and scores of police were hurt.

The informant from Jerusalem said that as a result of the Tel Aviv disturbance a curfew was ordered for 68 hours with women only allowed in the streets, and they only for two hours a day to buy food. Even this concession was cancelled the next day after women seized the opportunity to demonstrate anew.

NEW SCANDAL IN BRITISH CABINET

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—With the censored press predicting a second cabinet shake-up since the war's start, growing British concern over the supply ministry's conduct of its $64,000,000-a-week purchases was reflected today in the assembly of the war office secret court.

While London papers generally agreed Supply Minister Leslie Brugg was one of three cabinet members who would be dropped by Prime Minister Chamberlain, the court met to question an unnamed war office colonel reported to have recommended a discharged convict to the supply office as a contractors' agent.

There were reports Scotland Yard had completed an investigation of the entire wartime contracting system. Other developments included dismissal of three supply ministry employees.

The two cabinet members mentioned with Burgin as slated for dismissal are Sir Kingsley Wood, air minister, and Lord Hankey, minister without portfolio.

Chamberlain displaced Leslie Hore-Belisha as war secretary in a cabinet reshuffle on Jan. 5.

Tomorrow, the former convict, Charles Kingsley Scott, is expected to tell the secret court about allegations that the colonel introduced him as a responsible agent for contractors seeking war orders.

Legislation, based on the reported Scotland Yard investigation, is expected to be forthcoming to eliminate a "rake-off racket." Heavy penalties, it is said, will be imposed on promoters who demand commissions on the claim they exercise a special influence over ministry officials.

The News-Chronicle commented today: "The cabinet shares the general disquiet concerning supply contracts. Highly placed officials at the war office have been called in to give evidence."

New British War Loan Tops Billion

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—A new £300,000,000 (about $1,200,000,000) British war loan was announced in the House of Commons today by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

The loan is to be for a period of 15 to 19 years, to yield 3 per cent interest and to be issued at par, Sir John said.

Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, president of the Board of Trade, informed Commons the war risks insurance premium would remain one-quarter of 1 per cent a month due to "the increased risk of serious air raids" in the spring.

Geoffrey Lloyd, mines secretary, told the House storage of coal would be encouraged to prevent recurrence of a shortage such as the nation suffered this winter.

Dominions Minister Anthony Eden announced upward of 1300 Newfoundland volunteers would be trained for the Royal Artillery.

Japs Open New Drive Close to Hongkong

HONGKONG, March 5 (AP)—Japanese warships shelled shore positions 20 miles north of Portuguese Macao throughout the morning and then landed a force for another penetration of south China—this one just across the mouth of the Pearl river from Hongkong, British crown colony.

Reveals Finn Army Toll After Personal Survey

By COURTENAY TERRETT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

COPENHAGEN, March 5 (INS)—Finnish civil censorship prevents even the most vague guessing about casualties suffered by Finland's army.

BRITISH, GERMANS CLAIM NEW SINKINGS

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Stroke and counter-stroke in the struggle for control of the seas today matched a report of the probable destruction of a German submarine by air attack against the known loss of a British merchantman and possible loss of two others.

A royal air force plane scouting Schilling Roads, German naval stronghold off the Elbe river in Heligoland Bight was reported last night by the air ministry to have scored a direct hit on a submarine lying at the surface of shallow water.

"Four bombs were dropped, one of which registered a direct hit between the conning tower and the stern," said a ministry announcement.

"After the attack, the submarine was seen enveloped in a cloud of greyish black smoke with only the upper part of its conning tower above water."

But against this stroke the British had to weigh the announcement early today that the 6717-ton motorship Pacific Reliance had been sunk off the British coast by "enemy action" and SOS messages indicating that the 5811-ton steamer El Cervo and the 10,515-ton tanker Charles F. Meyer had run aground of undersea raiders.

"We are sinking," concluded the message from the Charles F. Meyer after the big tanker reported being torpedoed 50 miles southeast of Hastings in the English channel.

"We are being chased by a submarine," said an SOS attributed by MacKay Radio, in New York, to El Cervo from a position about 300 miles east of the Virgin Islands.

The entire crew of 53 from the Pacific Reliance landed on the Cornish coast during the night.

Welles Drafts Report On Italo-Nazi Talks

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, March 5 (AP)—Sumner Welles, at the railway point in his inquiry into the European situation for President Roosevelt, worked today on his report of talks with the leaders of Italy and Germany.

With Paris and London still to be visited, the American Undersecretary of State planned to remain here through tomorrow, leaving by train for Paris shortly after midnight. He will spend three days in the French capital before flying to London for three more days of conversations.

India's No. 2 Man Backs Strikers

ALLAHABAD, India, March 5 (AP)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, who stands next to and slightly to the left of Mohandas Gandhi among India's nationalists, expressed a strong sympathy today for the Bombay textile strike with which Gandhi disavowed any connection yesterday.

"This question affects all industrial workers in India, who are suffering hardships because of the rise in prices," said Nehru, former president of the all-India Congress. "The right approach is to raise wages, which is easily possible owing to the present expansion in production and large profits."

"The fundamental problem in India . . . is to raise the purchasing power of the masses." The strike called in 70 Bombay area mills affects more than 130,000 workers who are demanding a 15 per cent war bonus. Employers have countered with a 10 per cent offer on the recommendation of government conciliators.

(A dispatch from Bombay today said only 6000 out of Bombay's 160,000 textile mill hands were at work in the second day of the strike.)

French and Nazis In Skirmishes

PARIS, March 5 (AP)—French and German air forces surveyed each other's territory today, and on land there were patrol skirmishes along the Western Front. But in words of the French high command, there was "nothing to report."

BERLIN, March 5 (INS)—"Liaison scouting activity between the Moselle river and Palatinat forest" on the Western Front was announced in the German war communique today.

"The German air force continued reconnoitering over eastern France despite unfavorable weather," the bulletin added.

Official behind-the-lines spokesmen like to say that there have been "two or three natural deaths and a few accidental ones." They even try to spread the fiction that a communications officer, over-age for active military service, died of heart disease, aggravated by the excitement of relaying news of victory.

Thus officially at least Finnish soldiers are impervious to Russian bullets, shells and bombs.

A certain amount of understatement may be forgiven in view of the magnificent showing the Finns have made against overwhelming odds.

But the truth should be known, and at least two of Finland's highest ranking officers begged me to tell it when freed of censorship in the hope that this might bring added foreign aid before it is too late.

The figures given to me checked, insofar as a check was possible, through personal observations, cross-questioning and plain common sense. Excluding losses during the last few days or weeks, and particularly the doubtlessly enormous casualties we have accompanied the Soviet offensive against the Mannerheim Line, the figures are these:

Eighteen thousand killed—dead of wounds, exposure or otherwise.

Some 7500 wounded, of which 40 per cent have been able to return to the front.

Eight thousand suffering from frost-bite, pneumonia or accidents, of which 80 per cent again are serving.

Six hundred missing and presumed dead or captured.

Finns Still Hold Viipuri As Reds Widen Attack

HELSINKI, March 5 (AP)—The Finnish defenders of Viipuri, after battling all day yesterday with Russians attacking across the isthmus of the Bay of Viipuri, were locked in combat in this strategic area today, the Finnish high command announced in its daily communique.

The invading Russians were attempting to encircle the city, long deserted by civilians and considered virtually lost even by the Finns themselves.

In addition to attacking the islands in the bay, the Reds attacked the northwest shore of the bay, from where they presumably could force overland against Viipuri from the rear.

"On the isthmus enemy attacks against the islands in the Bay of Viipuri and the northwest shore of the bay continued all day March 4," said the communique. "Fighting continues on the cape at the mouth of the bay; at all other points attacks were repulsed."

Although fighting was heavy on the very outskirts of Viipuri, Finnish sources maintained that Soviet troops had not yet entered the city proper.

(The Russian communique on yesterday's activity said the Soviet troops had captured several towns on the western shore of the Bay of Viipuri as well as islands in the bay.)

The Finns reported continuing fighting at Kihma, on the eastern side of Finland's narrow "waist," with the defenders "capturing several enemy strong points." The Russians were said to have lost more than 200 killed.

Reds Move in North To Block Allied Aid

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5 (INS)—Continuing massing of Soviet troops on the Arctic front, Soviet Russia today was expected soon to launch a vast movement to occupy the whole Finnish "isthmus" in the north to cut off the sizable Anglo-French aid from that direction.

More Red army troops are being brought into the Polar area daily from Murmansk, their positions are being changed,

QUINCY BRIDE, 19, FACES COURT IN HOLDUP CHARGE

A pretty girl, bride of 12 days, who was taken from her husband in Virginia by policemen, faced Dorchester court today as the result of a warrant obtained against her by Boston police.

She is Mrs. Jay Carter, 19, formerly Evelyn Dayhoff of Hamden circle, Quincy. Police accuse her of participating in the holdup of a store in Robinson at Dorchester, in January.

Her case presents an unusual legal problem, court officials say, as "no bills" already have been reported by the Suffolk county grand jury in connection with three youths who police claim were the girl's companions during the robbery.

The warrant was served by two Boston policemen in Manassas, Va. The girl's husband, Jay Carter, attached to the marine barracks at Quantico, Va., comforted her as she wept at the railroad station.

"Come back to me as quickly as you can, I'll be waiting," was his farewell message.

Carter was unable to obtain a leave of absence to accompany her.

The girl was twice detained by Virginia police. The first time was when she was in the company of three Roanoke youths who were picked up with a car hired on the U-Drive-it plan after the company complained they had kept it several days beyond the period for which it was hired, according to police.

The three were brought back and are now in Charles st. jail on gun carrying charges. The Boston police notified Virginia authorities at that time they did not want the girl. On February 21, the morning of the girl's marriage, the sheriff of Manassas, Va., said the Boston police had changed their minds and planned to extradite her.

The sheriff agreed to wait until after the marriage. When the girl reported at the jail she was advised to go on her honeymoon. Four days later Boston police sent two policemen to bring her back on a warrant obtained in Dorchester court.

Jews Hurt Battling Police in Holy Land

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Fourteen British police and a number of Jews were reported today to have been injured Saturday in Jewish demonstrations in Palestine against new British land laws.

One report said that an 18-year-old university student injured in a disturbance in Tel Aviv Saturday died today.

Reliable British sources said that "a certain number" of Jews were arrested in Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv. Curfews were imposed at Tel Aviv.

The clashes were reported by the British to have started when crowds gathered and threw stones at police stations. Police dispersed the crowds.

Rome Reports Many Hurt in Rioting

ROME, March 5 (AP)—Scores of Jews and British police were injured in demonstrations in Palestine late last month and in one case British cavalry with drawn sabres charged to disperse a crowd, a reliable informant just from Jerusalem disclosed on passing through Rome today.

The demonstrations were against new British laws restricting transfer of land from Arabs to Jews, announced by Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald in Commons, Feb. 28. They occurred in at least three cities.

The largest was at the Jewish city of Tel Aviv, with more than 15,000 Jews taking part. Some erected barricades across the main thoroughfare, Ben Yehuda. Police tried unsuccessfully to disperse the mobs, first firing in the air and then at the feet of the demonstrators. Finally cavalry was summoned. It charged with sabres drawn. About 140 Jews and scores of police were hurt.

The informant from Jerusalem said that as a result of the Tel Aviv disturbance a curfew was ordered for 68 hours with women only allowed in the streets, and they only for two hours a day to buy food. Even this concession was cancelled the next day when women seized the opportunity to demonstrate anew.

Carter was unable to obtain a leave of absence to accompany her.

The girl was twice detained by Virginia police. The first time was when she was in the company of three Rosinville youths who were picked up with a car hired on the U-Drive-it plan after the company complained they had kept it several days beyond the period for which it was hired, according to police.

The three were brought back and are now in Charles st. jail on gun carrying charges. The Boston police notified Virginia authorities at that time they did not want the girl. On February 21, the morning of the girl's marriage, the sheriff of Manassas, Va., said the Boston police had changed their minds and planned to extradite her.

The sheriff agreed to wait until after the marriage. When the girl reported at the jail she was advised to go on her honeymoon. Four days later Boston police sent two policemen to bring her back on a warrant obtained in Dorchester court.

Pope Prays Rumania May Escape War

VATICAN CITY, March 5 (AP)—Pope Pius told a group of Rumanian bishops today that he prayed their country might be preserved "from the scourge of war."

Boston Man Wins $5 In Missing Girl Tip

A Boston man who called the News Tip Editor at Liberty 4000 with the information that an important girl witness in a case scheduled for trial in Middlesex court was listed by authorities as "missing," wins first prize of $5 in the weekly Tipster Contest sponsored by the Boston Record-Boston American-Boston Advertiser.

Two prizes of $3 each go to an Arlington realtor for an Arlington police chase in which one of two bandits was wounded and six shots were fired by police and a Boston bookkeeper who got a photograph of Charles E. Spencer, slayer of a Boston doctor.

A $3 award goes to a Revere man for the tip that a Squires rd., Revere, woman burned to death in a fire in her home. Another $2 award goes to a Chelsea man for phoning in that a man was kidnapped, stabbed and robbed of $500. A third $2 award goes to a Worcester man for a tip on a fire in Worcester.

Awards of $1 each were given to a Brockton man for a tip that Brockton High School students went out on strike; a Somerville girl for news on the death of a child run over by a freight train; a Greenfield man for a tip that two men were killed by a train in that city.

The Hearst papers in Boston pay for alertness. If you see or hear of anything which you think may be of news or picture value, call the News Tips Editor at Liberty 4000.

Each week these papers give $25 in prizes to tipsters. Watch this column for weekly winners.

school with her brother, she said, and she had known him about four years. During the visit of March 6, she testified, he asked her to go out with him and she consented.

They went in his car to the Copley-Plaza and the Merry-go-Round bar, she said, where she had one drink and he had two. She testified further:

PROPOSED TO HER

"At the bar he wanted to know why I would never let him visit me in New York. I told him I didn't care to have him. Then he asked me why I wasn't married and he said, 'Don't you think I could be a good person to marry?'"

"He told me he liked me very much."

"From the Copley Plaza we went to Coconut Grove, where we had dinner. I wanted to see a certain performer there."

"We had some more drinks there and we danced together. We left there at 7:30. I told him I was going home. We went into his car and he stopped at a florist's and gave me a corsage."

"Then he asked me to go out and meet his family. He went to one house, where he said he lived, and nobody was home. He said he didn't have a key.

PULLED INTO ELEVATOR

"Then he said, 'Come around the corner and see my sister.' He rang the bell of a house around the corner. There was nobody home there, either."

"Then he said, 'I've got to stay some place tonight. I've got a terrible cold and I'm sick.' Then he said, 'Come on back to the Copley-Plaza and have a few dances. Why do you want to go home?'"

"Finally I agreed to accompany him to the Copley-Plaza. He went in for a while and in about five minutes came out and said he had engaged a room. He asked me to go in and have a talk."

"I went in with him, and when we got to the elevator, near the Dartmouth st. side, he pulled me into the elevator, where there were several other passengers. I was so surprised I didn't know what to say."

TORN HERE SLEEVE OUT

"The first stop the elevator made I ran out and he followed me. I don't recall the floor. Then he started dragging me down the corridor. He caught me by the arm so hard that he ripped my coat collar and pulled out my sleeve."

"I struggled with him and he said, 'Come on down with me, down to my room.' I started to cry very bitterly. He said, 'What are you crying for?'"

"Then he caught me again and a maid who was in the corridor came over to talk to me. Then the house detective came up and told us not to make so much noise. He rode down with us in the elevator."

"Dr. Winchester followed me. I told him I was going home. He said, 'Let me take you home and I'll give you the ride of your life.' I said I wouldn't ride with him."

WOODED BETTE DAVIS WITH SONGS OF LOVE

almost constantly together, and undoubtedly she drew from him admissions of his other accomplishments, including the fact that he is a private flier.

He has been a licensed pilot for nearly a decade, and on one occasion in July, 1931, he had a nice little adventure when his ship ran out of gas above Boston harbor and he was forced to land in the water, 300 feet off Wood Island Park.

Some time after this incident, he was married at Yarmouthport to Bette Jane Aydelotte, Newton and South Shore society girl. They have since been divorced, however.

Bette also is divorced, and today it was recalled in connection with her parting from Harmon (Ham) Nelson, by whom she was first wooed at Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, that two weeks before the divorce in December, 1938, Bette denied there would be a divorce.

Today her friends took that into consideration in connection with her reported denial from Hollywood, where Farnsworth is now her house guest, that she and Arthur will be married.

Farnsworth recently flew to the West Coast when Bette's picture commitments prevented her from coming East, as she had expected to do a couple of weeks ago.

Meanwhile, Robert P. Peckett, Jr., owner of the famous play resort at Sugar Hill, said of the romance:

"It's no great surprise to me. In fact I've been expecting something like this for some time."

Farnsworth talks continually about Bette after he returned here from Hollywood early in the winter.

All the natives are certain that he is in love with the great emotional actress and that the couple will be wed in the spring.

Farnsworth first laid eyes on

Miss Davis when she arrived for a brief vacation the middle part of last August. Her mother had recommended the famous hostess as a place where Bette might escape publicity and get some well earned rest.

Bette left Sugar Hill for a time then returned and really fell in love with this section of the White Mountains before she left finally in early November she purchased "Butternut Lodge", a quaint summer place with 200 acres adjoining the Peckett estate.

DO WE HAVE TO DIE?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the ages, which enabled him to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surpassing accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields. To that eternal question, "Do we have to die?" his answer is astounding.

The author states the time has come for this long hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 8000-word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to sincere readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mental Physiology, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 58H, Los Angeles, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.

ENTER THE FASCINATING NEW REBUS GAME TODAY!

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all who reside in the United States, except residents of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Boston Herald. Members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any summer contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each week in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o The Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes. In those 100 contestants who, by their solution, achieve the 100 highest scores, the contestants may win more than one prize. Prizes does not count. Do not deceive your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance. In the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American, in case of final list, duplicate prize will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. Individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed thereon. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, tournament puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (including individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes and will not be returned. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the Contest.

HOW TO SOLVE A REBUS PUZZLE:

For a quick, simple illustration of how you solve these puzzles, let's assume you were asked to solve a puzzle like this:

HORSE minus ROSE plus OT equals a 3-letter word

In solving this puzzle you would cross out the letters R, O, S, E, from the word HORSE, leaving you merely the letter H. To that you would add OT, giving you the word HOT as your solution.

PUZZLE No. 20

WHAT WORD DOES THIS PUZZLE REPRESENT?
Add and subtract the letters given and the Letters in the Names of the Objects Pictured.

IT'S THE FOUR-LETTER WORD THAT MAKES THE CLEANING AND DYEING BUSINESS!

YES! AND THE KIND OF CASH A BUSINESS MAN LIKES!

IT'S WHAT YOU'RE ON AND WHAT YOU WANT TO HIT!

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Nov. 2nd to Sat. March 2nd inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, Boston, Mass. 10c. To return for re-entrance, contestants will make a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

If you're interested in the idea of winning $10,000.00, the time has come to act and get yourself officially entered in this Rebus Game!

It's easy for you to catch up with this fascinating game and bring yourself entirely up to date—for we are still offering late starters the opportunity to get the previous puzzles of the contest free. This offer will continue for a limited time only, so be sure to act NOW! Simply mail the coupon in the lower right corner of the page.

In the meantime, see if you can figure out what WORD is represented by Puzzle No. 20 printed at the left. Each puzzle represents a word and you find that word by adding and subtracting the letters given and the letters in the names of the objects pictured. Note that the solution diagram after the equal sign indicates the length of the word you're seeking.

HOW TO SEND IN YOUR ANSWERS

Your solutions are to be submitted in weekly series of six—that is, the six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week in the Record and American. (You can follow the contest in either paper.) Puzzles 1-6, for example, make up the First Series; Puzzles 7-12, the Second Series, etc. This week's (the Fourth) Series consists of puzzles 19-24. This week's series of solutions should be submitted any time up to midnight, Saturday, March 16. Any previous series not yet submitted should be sent in as promptly as possible in order to bring you up to date. Subsequent series should be sent in during the week following its publication in the Record and American.

ENCLOSE DIME WITH EACH SERIES

With each series of six solutions the rules require a remittance of 10c in coin. This qualifies you for a prize, in accordance with the rules, and in return for remittance, you will receive at the conclusion of the contest a special set of entertaining Rebus Puzzles.

... As Trees Snap Under Weight of Sleet

EVING AMERICAN TUESDAY MARCH 5 1940

Service ... Not as Usual—Wires are broken under the tremendous weight of sleet and ice ... and here a telephone repair man at Milton does a quick job on top of a pole ... to let messages go through. Damage all over New England mounted into the thousands.

Like a Skating Rink—Beautiful, but dangerous, are the roads about Boston today ... fringed by a glorious ice-coat that glitters with rainbows ... so slippery that cars skid as they crawl zig-zaggedly along. Just outside of Milton, this picture was taken.

Roadway

—This photo tells the story of the sleet storm ... with cars in the background pulled to the side of a road, where they have been left as their owners trudged on foot to their destinations. Taken near Milton.

Winter

—Almost as destructive to trees as last year's hurricane is the sleet storm sweeping New England now ... with younger trees being broken down by the icy coating.

ON THURSDAY, February 29, 1940, something happened in Washington, D. C., which probably never happened before in our national history.

For on that day the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States was compelled to take official cognizance of the fact that an Associate Justice of the Court was being made the victim of a conscienceless and scurrilous "smear campaign" in which the Chief Justice's own name has been used without the slightest warrant.

CHIEF JUSTICE

agents who had engaged in enlisting "soldiers" for Red Spain. Mr. Murphy's elevation to the Supreme Court came when the Department of Justice was busily occupied in these matters—and also when the Communist and Communistic organizations and publications were loudly demanding that proceedings be stopped.

Mr. Murphy's successor as Attorney General—Robert H. Jackson—almost immediately dismissed the untried indictments in Detroit, and utterances of his were widely interpreted as meaning that the Murphy policy of vigilant law enforcement against un-American groups or agents would be abandoned.

At the same time there burst forth in the radical press a virulent propaganda against Justice Murphy.

Washington columnists wrote pieces saying that Justice Murphy had delayed taking his new oath of office until President Roosevelt commanded him to do so, and since then had been an absent and intractable malingeringer.

SO RIFE DID THESE ASPERSIONS become that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes finally found it necessary to issue a denial on behalf of Justice Murphy and the Supreme Court itself.

This denial was as explicit, as unqualified and as categorical as the learned Chief Justice could make it.

Here is the way in which it was reported in the New York Times on March 1:

"WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—On behalf of Chief Justice Hughes, it was said today that 'there was NOT A WORD OF TRUTH' in reports appearing in newspapers that the Chief Justice has criticized Justice Murphy, directly or through others, regarding his judicial attitude, his absences from the Bench when ill, or any other matter.

"It has been widely published out of Washington that these criticisms had been made by the Chief Justice. One account said the Chief Justice had interviewed Justice Murphy on the matter and had sent others to discuss them with him."

Chief Justice Hughes' public statement makes the fact wholly obvious that Justice Murphy has simply been made THE VICTIM OF A "SMEAR CAMPAIGN" similar in every respect to the "smear campaigns" that have been directed against others.

When the Dies Committee began to function in 1933, the radicals applauded its effective exposure of Fritz Kuhn's Nazi movement.

But when the Committee began to INVESTIGATE COMMUNISM, the Communists and other radicals—INCLUDING HIGH MEMBERS OF THE NEW DEAL ADMINISTRATION—turned on the Committee.

Most recent of the "smear campaigns" in this class is the one now headed against J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

These and other instances show that "smearing" has become a widely prevalent practice in and around Washington and is one of the chief weapons of Communist defense and attack.

The practice is not new, however. It is very old. It is prevalent in the animal kingdom and was adopted by the lower orders of man.

It apparently originated with the ape.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 5—When the day came to leave Florida I was afraid the lazy life was going to be hard to shake off. I have discovered there is much in a change of atmosphere. I imagine that the President most reluctantly neared his home port again.

It was a delightful holiday and I am deeply grateful to the kindly people who were so considerate and allowed me such freedom.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON I had a few visitors: Mr. and Mrs. James M. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. John Knight of Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sporborg. I feel I owe Mr. Sporborg a special debt of gratitude for having found me the house, which I left so reluctantly.

I have just received a most charming circular about a book published by the Caxton Printers, Limited, of Caldwell, Idaho. It is called: "With a Sketch Book Along the Old Mission Trail," by Maude Robeson Gunthrop. The story is chiefly told by the sketches, but each drawing is accompanied by a brief note. I can hardly wait to get the book itself, because of this charming folder.

FIRST LADY ADMIRES FLORIDA CACTUS PLANT
"It Was a Delightful Holiday and I Am Deeply Grateful"

Interesting, I think his statement that, when the war comes to an end, all of Europe will be suffering is discouraging in the extreme, but not very far from the truth.

UNFORTUNATELY, it is always the little people who starve. They are starving, not in Finland, for there food is one of the few things which they do not need, but most certainly there is starvation in Poland, and to a great extent probably in Germany, and probably in Spain and Italy, and, to some extent, even in France and England.

Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher has already begun to bring home through the newspapers the story of her effort to arouse the child-dren of this country to share what they can with the children who are in want in other countries. I hope she will be successful, not only because of the help which may go to children of other lands, but because of the education value which the plan holds for our own children, who are so apt to take for granted their relatively happy surroundings.

GLAMOUR BOY GETS SECURITY CARD

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 5—Billy Livingston, the glamour boy who soon will come into his inheritance, broadcasts now for the "Society Girl" program. He spent the first ten days rushing the studio officials into getting him his social security card . . . On Feb. 10, 1939, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, from Hollywood, wired a young lady here: "Having acute script-trouble." Sir Cedric returned to Hollywood a few weeks ago—and on Feb. 10, 1940, wired the same girl: "Having acute script-trouble." . . . Irving Reis of the Columbia Workshop attracted a great deal of attention because of the shows he presented with Oren Welles and other radio actors. He then went to Hollywood and wrote pictures like "King of Alcatraz," which made much money. On New Year's Eve he was notified that he would be given an opportunity to direct movies. He went to a party and there celebrated his promotion. At 5 a. m. he walked into the library and found a pretty girl playing pick-up-sticks. He joined her in the game and then began: "Are you an actress?" She nodded, and Reis continued: "Well, I'm going to be a director and I might use a girl like you. Any experience?" . . . "One picture. I've just finished making it," she informed . . . "Only one?" he frowned. "Well, you can't tell. We young fellas, with our new ideas, might overcome inexperience. What's your name?" She told him: "Vivien Leigh."

RUTH CHATTERTON

BARRY THOMPSON attended the premiere of "Leave Her to Heaven." During the highly emotional scene between Ruth Chatterton and Eldon Gorn, who portrays her son, one patron said, too loudly: "She has a funny-looking son." Thompson tapped him and muttered: "So has your mother" . . . Elmer Rice has made changes in his "Two on an Island" and revised some portions which he felt were too subtle. "I wanted the audience to use their imagination," Rice told Eva Langbord of the cast. "Yes, but when you expect people to bring $3.30 for a seat," Miss Langbord reminded, "they shouldn't be expected to bring imagination, too."

WHEN H. L. MENCKEN went to see "Life With Father," after a 17-year absence from the theater, he told Russel Crouse between acts: "You're inaccurate in one detail. In those days every stairway had a newel at the bottom of the hand-rail. You forgot to include such a post in your set—and it's unforgivable" . . . In the next scene the young boy in the show slid down the banister—all the way down . . . "Oh, well," Mencken told Crouse, "I forgive you."

KING WITHOUT A CONTEST of the style of music Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller, Woody Herman, Gene Krupa and so forth do NOT play, king of the style they call, for lack of a punchier name, "sweet music"—Guy Lombardo has signed on the dotted line for two weeks at the Ritz Roof this summer . . . The date has not been settled . . . But in reward for his efforts last summer and the resultant clink of the cash register for a record gross, Guy may get the choice week of the season, Harvard Commencement Week . . . Benny Goodman had it last year.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The "identification tag" pretty Gracie Worth of "Worth a Million" wears is a gift of Pieter de Vos, a Wall Street-er from Amsterdam . . . The "tag" is worn around Gracie's neck, and one side has an inscription: "Don't Crush," and on the other: "Handle With Care" . . . You may remember Gracie as the clever little soubrette of "Let 'Em Eat Cake" . . . In her new assignment the duties are very slight and she was mourning this a bit, but in the best of spirit . . . No one thought to remind her that hers is the only name in lights—being as it is part of the play's title.

WHEN MISS WORTH loomed as a fairly good bet to become very prominent on the musical comedy stage when "Let 'Em Eat Cake" was trying out in Boston in 1935, her kid sister, Billy, was in grammar school . . . "Let 'Em Eat Cake" had Victor Moore and William Gaxton as stars, Sam H. Harris as producer, and the infallible George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart as authors . . . And the music was by George and Ira Gershwin . . . Little Miss Worth might easily have been excused if she indulged in fancy hopes about a long, long run and further triumphs that would make it possible to see her sister Billy safely through high school—and perhaps college . . . But "Let 'Em Eat Cake" proved a dismal and expensive failure when it hit New York.

THE SEQUEL COMING TO BOSTON next week is Dwight Deere Wiman's highly regarded "Higher and Higher," with a score by Rodgers and Hart, a production of the very highest standard, and dances by Robert Alton, currently the king of the dance-directing division . . . And cast in a part very similar in importance to the one Gracie Worth had in "Let 'Em Eat Cake" is another pretty youngster with high ambitions and kid dances with Lee Dixon and his two "cute numbers" to dance and sing . . . The word is out that she sings a little, dances a lot and has that indefinable something Gracie also has and is called variously "oomph," "sock," or "the ooh-la-la" . . . Her name? . . . Billy Worth Gracie's kid sister.

POPE PIUS XI LIFE FOR SCREEN

By Louella O. Parsons

Arthur Hornblow

HOLLYWOOD, March 5—I hope Arthur Hornblow's negotiations with Danton Manfredo for "The Life of Pope Pius XI" are successful. The asking price is $75,000 and the present offer has given his approval of the story which is based on the biography of this great Catholic leader. With the world in its present state of turmoil and hatred it seems fitting that such a picture should be made now for the late Pope worked unceasingly for world peace.

His memory will live in the hearts, not only of the Catholics, but of all who appreciated his efforts for world peace. Those of us who were fortunate enough to have had an audience with him will never forget his fine spiritual face and his gentle bearing. Born Achilles Ratti, of poor people, his rise to the place at the head of the great Catholic Church is filled with drama and interest and Paramount should be able to produce an inspiring picture.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

ARCHIBALD TREMBLAY sat down heavily on his hotel bed and groaned aloud. Six weeks here with the palm trees and soft breezes was all he could stand. Yes sir! Mamie and Doc would have to listen to reason. His wife and four sons paid too much attention to Doc's chatter, anyway. A man had years ahead of him at 68.

He reached for the ornament on his bed table, grinning at it fondly, remembering. He had found it in a second-hand shop when he was young and poor. It would serve as an ash tray or a paper weight or even keep a door from blowing shut.

It was gaudy and gilded, but across its flat four-leaf-clover design were the words that had never failed to inspire him: "Don't wait for luck—use your head!"

And as suddenly as that, Mr. Tremblay had an inspiration . . . He told Mamie he was going back to see Doc. Spluttering, Mamie went back with him.

"IT'S THIS WAY, Doc," he confided. "I'm miserable down here with the palm trees and all, away from business. I've lost weight in the last month just sitting around. So I'll tell you what. Weigh me today. I'll go back to work for a month. Then weigh me again. If the indicator doesn't say four pounds more next month, I'll retire. Is it a bargain?"

Doc smiled knowingly. "You can't do it. Not in the same clothes."

"The very same clothes!" said Mr. Tremblay.

Doc laughed. "All right. But it can't be done. I'm certain."

It was heaven to be back in the private office. A man was meant to work. Yes sir. Mr. Tremblay whistled joyfully off key, and his appetite was enormous.

WHEN THE MONTH was up, Mr. Tremblay called promptly at Doc's office.

"You've—you've gained almost five pounds!" Doc's watery blue eyes popped as Mr. Tremblay roared with laughter.

He was still chuckling half an hour later as he entered his private office. This was the life. He put his hand in his side pocket and removed the ornament. Yes sir. It weighed just four pounds! And it was worth its weight in gold.

LISTEN WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

"HOW," she sighs, "can I defend my own rights without hurting anyone's feelings?"

Oldest question on earth—you and I have asked it thousands of times. Here we are trying to get along together in a busy, crowded world. All of us bound together—depending on each other. Yet each one of us with a different personal program, different needs, different notions of right or wrong. And each one of us faced with the necessity of maintaining his own rights, fighting for his own plan and place.

How can we do it without stepping on the other fellow's toes?

The answer's simple. We CAN'T. We shouldn't expect to. And the Other Fellow shouldn't be peeved because we can't.

WE DON'T LIKE to accept that answer. It seems harsh. It demands a lot of spunk to put it across—results in some highly unpleasant scenes. And we're sentimental . . . lazy and cowardly. We don't like tears. Or fuss. It's pleasanter to give up. "Do anything for peace." So we take the easy way.

Frantically, there's that familiar brawl over Mixing Relatives with Business. The Family's worried over Sister Susie. Sister Susie is the Original Bonehead. Nobody knows what to do with her—everybody's trying to pass her on to somebody else. So the Family decides that it would be Perfectly Lovely if Robert would take Susie into his office.

Robert protests with vigorous yelps. Sister Susie will raise Cain with his work. But suppose he refused? There'll be the devil to pay. Everybody mad—bawling all over the place. He can't face it! So nine times out of ten Susie gets the job and Robert takes the rap—and spends all his spare time thereafter being sorry for himself and blaming The Family.

BUT IS IT The Family's fault? Not at all. It is up to Robert to defend his own job and his own life. And if he doesn't it's due—not to The Family's sob's or snorts, but HIS OWN SPINELESSNESS.

Mature life is a serious job. A youngster can honorably avoid unpleasantness . . . "get along nicely with other people" by letting them have their own way. But no decent adult can ooze through existence in that manner. Adults have responsibilities to be met, rights to be defended, opportunities to be developed. These aren't merely selfish desires—they are fundamental duties.

THERE SEEMS to be no end to Rosamond Pier Hunt's talents and accomplishments . . . and the four short years since her debut have been crowded with distinctive achievements . . . She has written and acted in plays, designed stage settings for a number of amateur theatricals and won national awards for her paintings . . .

Yesterday all her Milton friends and neighbors turned out to acclaim her latest exhibition of water colors which opened with a cocktail party at George Shaw's Gallery on Newbury st. . . .

It is hard to say who was the proudest, her bridegroom of less than a year, William Morris Hunt, architect, or her father, Arthur S. Pier, author and master at St. Paul's School.

Tall and blonde, with a beautiful complexion and radiant smile, Rosamond was a gracious hostess and modestly acknowledged the plaudits of her admirers . . . She wore a full-skirted dress of black faille with a demure ruff of white lace at the neckline and a fetching bonnet with a halo of mink framing her face . . . She carried a bouquet of violets . . .

Exhibit Attracts Socialites

NOT A MEMBER of that modern school which produces freakish and grotesque paintings, Rosie believes that art is primarily decorative . . . The exhibit reveals her versatility at painting animals and landscapes, and a delicate beauty of technique . . .

Her brother, Arthur, Jr., and cousin, Gardiner Pier with the latter's bride (Emily Dick) were present to enjoy the fun, and Reinette Plimpton who recently became engaged to Gardiner's brother, William S. Pier, of New York, made a striking appearance in a crimson wool coat with Persian lamb collar, muff and tiny hat . . . She attended with Mimi Little of Concord, whose tailored outfit had a matching hat with rust bows in the back . . .

Molly Ayer, who was a bridesmaid at Rosie's wedding, attended with her mother, Mrs. James B. Ayer, and sister, Sue . . . Her gray suit brightened by a coral blouse and novel necklace of little gold bells . . . Mary Van Ness, whose paintings have been exhibited in several Junior League shows, was an interested spectator and Cora Peabody wore a festive outfit of gray and white plaid with a crimson zipper and green wool turban . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Iselin also enjoyed the exhibit and a sociable chat with friends and others present included Virginia Dudley, Gail Neilson, Betsy Brewer, Betty Allen, Katharine Warner and Janet Forbes . . .

THE FELLOW behind the Jesse James whiskers is Harvardian Bayard Clark, enjoying a bit of refreshment with Debutante Amabel Ehlman of Milton at a recent costume party. Amabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ehlman, was dressed in a becoming fuchsia Turkish outfit.

Talk on Italy For League

Rev. John J. You Can Be Beautiful

Real Tonic For Dry Skin

By ARLINE GOULD
ALERT as Mr. Hoover's G-men when it comes to beauty bargains, we have the great pleasure of telling you what our sleuthing in the shops uncovered yesterday. It's a very unusual half-price sale, to last one week, on one of the best dry skin creams we have met in our travels.

The cream which is being offered this week is a very special one that is definitely a corrective cream for stubborn cases of dryness. It is not inexpensive; the improved oils which makes it so effective are costly, and the jar regularly sets you back five dollars. It's well worth it, too, the best proof of that being in its steady clientele. In this sale, you can get this five-dollar jar for exactly $2.50.

It is a rich, nourishing cream, pale gold in color, which you smooth into your skin every night before retiring. Once a week you are advised to spread a fairly heavy layer on your face and leave it on for about 15 minutes while you read your bedtime magazine or do your nails, then wipe off all but a film which is absorbed by your pores as you sleep.

If you do this faithfully every night, with the weekly extra treatment, until the jar is finished, your skin should be completely recovered from its doldrums. You won't need to buy another jar, if you take good care of your complexion, for a long time.

Arline Gould will tell you where the sale is being held, if you call her at Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays, before 5 o'clock; or write her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

AS WINTER WANES and the welcome spring sun warms the frosty ground, will your complexion echo the freshness and glow of nature? Anita Louise, above, has that flower-petal skin that bespeaks youth... but which can be cultivated if you use a good, corrective cream which Arline Gould discusses today.

Chowder Is Substantial Dish

By MARTHA LEE

As long as the weather man predicts low temperatures the problem in cooking is to have new hot dishes that will satisfy hearty appetites. And the answer is often found in a good-flavored chowder or a substantial soup.

Clams are usually associated with chowder, but people in different places have varied this rule by making chowder with other kinds of fish, with meat, or with vegetables of many kinds. Often a single vegetable, such as corn, supplies the outstanding flavor.

- 3 cups boiling water
- 3 cups diced potatoes
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 qt. fresh clams, minced, or
- 2 cans (No. 1) minced clams
- 3 cups milk, scalded
- 6 pilot or hard crackers

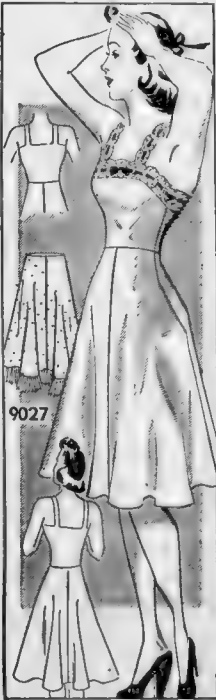

Try out salt pork in large saucepan; add onions and saute until browned; add boiling water, potatoes and seasonings, and boil about 15 minutes, or until potatoes are soft. Heat fresh clams and clam liquor to boiling point, add with milk to soup mixture and again bring to a boil. Pour chowder over plain or crumbled crackers in serving bowls. Makes 6 servings.

CARROT-POTATO CHOWDER

- 1 white onion, minced
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 cups diced raw potatoes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 tsp. salt
- 3/4 tsp. paprika
- 2 carrots, diced and cooked
- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 1 tbsp. flour

Saute onions in two tablespoons butter in large saucepan until lightly browned, add potatoes, boiling water, salt and paprika and boil about 15 minutes or until potatoes are soft. Add carrots, milk and flour mixed with remaining two tablespoons butter and cook five minutes, stirring until smooth and thickened. Makes six servings.

Special bread to serve with soup is so important that it seems to be almost a part of the dish itself. Crackers are always popular, and there is almost endless variety of them today. You can restore crackers to their original crispness by heating them slowly in the oven. Toasted fingers or rounds of dry bread, cheese straws or puffs, and pastry sticks are also good.

Pattern 9027 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 slip, requires 2 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric; 2 3/4 yards lace edging. Longer Jackets in Vogue

By ANNIE BRINK

THE LONGER JACKET seems to be the most definitely different feature of the 1940 suits. The navy, black and pencil striped tailors, always smart on the woman who can wear them, have changed very little from the one of last season and the year before.

You will notice, however, that the coats are several inches longer than those of recent years. Most of them come five or six inches below the hipline.

The black tailored wool suit is often trimmed with silk braid this season. This suit is very smart with a crisply sheer white blouse and one of the new sailors, with veil either over the face or just "whooshed" around the brim and tied in a bow at the back.

Dressmaker suits, which are easier to wear because they are more feminine, are most attractive this season. Again, they show the longer jacket. Many of these have peplums which emphasize a small waistline and flatter the hips. A camel wool suit of this type is faced with red, which also faces the canteen-inspired pocket which comes from the belt, but does not swing loose... it gives interest to the rounded peplum.

The cocktail suit has made its appearance, and will be seen on some of our best-dressed women. One which has been shown in Hollywood is of cream silk and gold metallic plaid. It has a swing skirt and a below-the-hips jacket with a peplum, the edges of which are folded back in lapel fashion.

THERE SEEMS to be no end to Rosamond Pier Hunt's talents and accomplishments . . . and the four short years since her debut have been crowded with distinctive achievements . . . She has written and acted in plays, designed stage settings for a number of amateur theatricals and won national awards for her paintings . . .

Yesterday all her Milton friends and neighbors turned out to acclaim her latest exhibition of water colors which opened with a cocktail party at George Shaw's Gallery on Newbury st. . . .

It is hard to say who was the proudest, her bridegroom of less than a year, William Morris Hunt, architect, or her father, Arthur S. Pier, author and master at St. Paul's School.

Tall and blonde, with a beautiful complexion and radiant smile, Rosamond was a gracious hostess and modestly acknowledged the plaudits of her admirers . . . She wore a full-skirted dress of black faille with a demure ruff of white lace at the neckline and a fetching bonnet with a halo of mink framing her face . . . She carried a bouquet of violets . . .

Exhibit Attracts Socialites

NOT A MEMBER of that modern school which produces freakish and grotesque paintings, Rosie believes that art is primarily decorative . . . The exhibit reveals her versatility at painting animals and landscapes, and a delicate beauty of technique . . .

Her brother, Arthur, Jr., and cousin, Gardiner Pier with the latter's bride (Emily Dick) were present to enjoy the fun, and Reineite Plimpton who recently became engaged to Gardiner's brother, William S. Pier, of New York, made a striking appearance in a crimson wool coat with Persian lamb collar, muff and tiny hat . . . She attended with Mimi Little of Concord, whose tailored outfit had a matching hat with rust bows in the back . . .

Molly Ayer, who was a bridesmaid at Rosie's wedding, attended with her mother, Mrs. James B. Ayer, and sister, Sue . . . Her gray suit brightened by a coral blouse and novel necklace of little gold bells . . . Mary Van Ness, whose paintings have been exhibited in several Junior League shows, was an interested spectator and Cora Peabody wore a festive outfit of gray and white plaid with a crimson zipper and green wool turban . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Iselin also enjoyed the exhibit and a sociable chat with friends and others present included Virginia Dudley, Gail Neilson, Betsy Brewer, Betty Allen, Katharine Warner and Janet Forbes . . .

You Can Be Beautiful

Real Tonic For Dry Skin

By ARLINE GOULD
ALERT as Mr. Hoover's G-men when it comes to beauty bargains, we have the great pleasure of telling you what our sleuthing in the shops uncovered yesterday. It's a very unusual half-price sale, to last one week, on one of the best dry skin creams we have met in our travels.

The cream which is being offered this week is a very special one that is definitely a corrective cream for stubborn cases of dryness. It is not inexpensive; the imported oils which makes it so effective are costly, and the jar regularly sets you back five dollars. It's well worth it, too, the best proof of that being in its steady clientele. In this sale, you can get this five-dollar jar for exactly $2.50.

It is a rich, nourishing cream, pale gold in color, which you smooth into your skin every night before retiring. Once a week you are advised to spread a fairly heavy layer on your face and leave it on for about 15 minutes while you read your bedtime magazine or do your nails, then wipe off all but a film which is absorbed by your pores as you sleep.

If you do this faithfully every night, with the weekly extra treatment, until the jar is finished, your skin should be completely recovered from its doldrums. You won't need to buy another jar, if you take good care of your complexion, for a long time.

Arline Gould will tell you where the sale is being held, if you call her at LHBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays, before 5 o'clock; or write her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

AS WINTER WANES and the welcome spring sun warms the frosty ground, will your complexion echo the freshness and glow of nature? Anita Louise, above, has that flower-petal skin that bespeaks youth . . . but which can be cultivated if you use a good, corrective cream which Arline Gould discusses today.

Chowder Is Substantial Dish

By MARTHA LEE
As long as the weather man predicts low temperatures the problem in cooking is to have new hot dishes that will satisfy hearty appetites. And the answer is often found in a good-flavored chowder or a substantial soup.

Clams are usually associated with chowder, but people in different places have varied this rule by making chowder with other kinds of fish, with meat, or with vegetables of many kinds. Often a single vegetable, such as corn, supplies the outstanding flavor.

22 BOSTON MUTUAL'S GAINS CONTINUE

The sturdy, consistent growth marking the development of the Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company in recent years, continued its upward movement during 1939, according to the annual statement issued by President Jay R. Benton.

The Company, completing its fortieth year as a legal reserve company, increased its insurance in force $3,662,880, making the total now in force $89,923,191, the highest in the history of the Company. On December 31, the number of policyholders was 230,150, a gain of 10,008 for the year. The total admitted assets stood at $14,141,389, having increased during the year $355,098. The principal item of the assets is bonds amounting to $9,357,377, or 66 per cent of the assets.

Of the bond holdings, over one-half, or $1,709,753, was invested in U. S. Treasury and Guaranteed bonds maturing in from 1 to 25 years and for further liquidity the Company had at the close of the year cash bank balances of $332,709. First mortgage investments amounted to $1,433,803; most of them are in residential properties in the Boston Metropolitan District. Federal Housing Loans amounted to $41,916. The mortgage portfolio showed a return of 5 1/2 per cent. Only one foreclosure was added during 1939.

SURPLUS $677,813
Surplus funds, over and above reserve requirements and obligations, stood at $677,813. Last year the Boston Mutual paid to policyholders and beneficiaries $1,766,014, or at the rate of nearly $39 each business day. Since its organization such payments have amounted to $31,581,316. The directors have voted to pay dividends in 1940 on the same liberal basis as last year and over $225,000 has been allocated for this year's dividends, the largest amount since the company has been doing business.

SPLENDID RECORD
The income recorded during 1939 exceeded all disbursements by $337,154. New policy loans decreased 20 per cent in number and 13 per cent in cash; cash surrenders decreased 7 1/2 per cent in amount.

Mortality experience was again favorable and was responsible for 90 per cent of the increase in operating gains in 1939 over 1938.

The splendid record of progress made by the Boston Mutual is largely attributable to the type of management which it enjoys. One of the largest insurance reporting services states:

"Officers of the company are men of long and successful experience in insurance management and they are highly respected throughout insurance circles for their very successful management policies. Their best recommendation is in the annuals of this honorable institution which has risen to its present status of one of the strongest and most reliable financial institutions in the country."

The officers are: President, Jay R. Benton, formerly attorney-general of Massachusetts; secretary-treasurer, Edward C. Mansfield; actuary, Byron Wright; superintendent of agencies, William H. Moody.

Mild Upturn Scored by Specialties

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Led by selected steels, aircrafts and specialties, the stock market today displayed mildly rallying tendencies.

While buying demand continued sluggish, gains of fractions to a point or so were fairly well distributed.

Attracting support were Bethlehem, Republic steel, Inland Steel, Sperry, Bendix, American Telephone, Western Union, Kennecott, International Nickel, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway, Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Chrysler and Dow Chemical.

Inclined to hang back were Santa Fe, United Gas Improvement, Phelps Dodge and Air Reduction. Bonds and commodities held to a narrowly irregular course, as did the principal European securities markets.

Brokerage quarters still found nothing particularly disheartening in the general run of news but noted most of their customers exhibited a desire to keep speculative stakes clean pending war and national political developments and more pictures the domestic economic picture is due to brighten.

Rukeyser Notes Dangers to Insurance

NEW YORK, March 5 (INS)—Mervyn S. Rukeyser, International News Service financial writer, today called upon life insurance executives to take their policyholders into their confidence and make clear the bearing of political policies on family security, in a speech before the Eastern round table of the Life Insurance Advertisers Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Rukeyser charged that the New Deal, while passing laws to achieve social security, was at the same time developing economic insecurity "through business bailing, confederate taxation and failure to end disequilibrium in our economy."

He asserted that the only thing that could fundamentally hurt life insurance was the erosion of the capitalistic system. RECEIVED

HUGH E. BRADSHAW Business Again Turns Upward

Financial Editor

Two features of this week's business activity chart are worthy of special attention... The first is the upturn registered by the index... The second is the addition, for comparative purposes, of the first quarter of 1937...

THE UPTURN... For the latest week reported is only fractional, it is true... But it breaks... NOTEBOOK... Crucible Steel should admit, lies not in Congress Halls but in the third term issue

It is understood to have received very few orders from the Allied purchasing commission... About enough we hear to account for 2 per cent of operations in one of the company's mills... Some business from South America and Portugal, but not much, reported... And a few orders have developed from Spanish reconstruction... Firmness in tool steel prices is favorable to Crucible... General Outdoor Advertising earnings are said to show steady improvement...

IN RESPONSE... To a number of reader requests we added to the chart the record for early 1937... Some correspondents frankly said they suspected the press to be a repetition of three years ago... When, as all remember, a boom was dying... Well, the present isn't the same... The picture since the first of the year is totally different... Instead of a hectic upturn we find correction via trade contraction... Business then was literally burning itself out... Now it is renewing its strength by elimination of excesses... Then the aftermath was famine in the fall... Today the business prospect of good gains in the last half is not impaired by a contrary seasonal first quarter...

SLEEPING BEAUTY... Had nothing on the current stock market... However, while traders may grant the slumber similarity it is doubtful they think the favorites in their long account very pretty... SHAFFER

ALICE was wondering numbly how she was going to tell Fleur. The message had just come from Jim; he had put it up to Alice to deliver the news. He couldn't get there in time to be sure that Fleur would not get it on the radio, or perhaps through a shouting newsboy. The wire had just come to the theater as Alice left the stage, her part in the matinee performance finished. She sat in her dressing room waiting for Fleur who was still on the stage.

Applause greeted the final curtain, and Alice rose and walked to the wings, as Fleur took her bows. Fleur was something to look at, a writer where you sat. For the thousandth time Alice noted the regal figure, the classic features, the gorgeous mass of sunlit hair, the coiffured, the emotional intensity of the fire flicked eyes. Brown they were, like the foreign liquor in which particles of real gold are suspended.

Alice turned back to the dressing room. She had heard a good deal about Fleur before she had met her and become her close friend. It wasn't all pretty, what she had heard. But then, life being what it is, a girl who looked like Fleur and was pushed into the theatrical world by parents at an age when most girls are protected schoolchildren with piglets, could scarcely avoid some disaster. It had come to Fleur at sixteen. After several years of modeling for commercial artists and photographers in New York, Fleur had been brought to Hollywood. The avariciousness of the parents had closed their ears to what was said about the screen star who was to use Fleur in his new film, as leading lady. After the first role she had done so well that she was given a contract.

Two years of that experience had Fleur at eighteen quite bitter and worldly wise, at least in her own estimation. Some of those who had looked on, pityingly.

"I burn my candle at both ends. It will not last the night. But oh, my fox, and oh, my friends,

It gives a lovely light."

She stopped that, though, after their first evening together. It just didn't fit the subject and tone of their conversation. As time went along, and their feeling for each other ripened into love, the ugly nightmare of the past gradually slipped from Fleur, and the shy romantic imaginings of her early childhood began to steal back to her. Life could be the way she used to dream of it—with Maurice.

A NEW LIFE

In her heart she prayed to be forgiven for those ugly years, to have them wiped out of her life and forgotten. It seemed almost too much to hope for, but it did come to pass, with the happy ending in a fairy tale wedding—and the beginning of a new life.

No more talk of money, of contracts, of conniving, of currying favor and swallowing familiarities. Maurice had insisted that she give up film work, and take some good dramatic coaching. After that, his influence had gotten her a chance in a legitimate show. Her beauty and real ability had done the rest.

Time dims the most potent magic, so that it was perhaps not strange that the wonder of Maurice's love took almost second place with Fleur as her spectacular dramatic career got into full swing. It was heady draught, this success on Broadway, and Fleur was a little drunk with it all. There were the Summers to enjoy life with Maurice, the interludes when Maurice could come to New York when he was not busy on a film production. Together they enjoyed the gay whirl of the Big Town, gay indeed when one is young, a celebrity, in love with a handsome husband.

It was in New York that Fleur and Maurice had become so close to Jim and Alice. Maurice and Jim had been in college together. The two couples had met by chance Maurice and Jim were to come from location to the theater for the girls. They would have an hour to rest and change before the men would arrive.

FLUR'S STORY

Alice pulled herself together by a violent effort as Fleur entered the dressing room. She turned her face towards the mirror, quickly smearing it with cold cream. She called a greeting over her shoulder to Fleur, in a voice so natural that she amazed herself. Inside, she was going to pieces. Fleur noticed nothing, evidently, for she threw herself on the chaise, arms folded over her head.

"Alice, I've been wanting to talk to you. Seriously, I mean. I've been "Well, I've almost come to forgive them for it. You see, I wouldn't have met Maurice if I hadn't been in pictures. My life couldn't have been so wonderful with somebody else."

"I have been pretty selfish, I think. Maurice has done everything for me, given me, everything. The last two years, he's asked me several times if I wasn't ready to give up the theater for a while and have a child."

Alice winced inside. She hoped her face didn't betray her. This was going to be worse than she had thought.

Fleur was talking again.

"Kiss me tonight's our wedding anniversary. I'm going to tell Maurice when we get home after the show that I'm refusing that fall engagement with Al Woods. I'm going to stay out here with Maurice and have that baby for him. It's the only thing he's ever asked of me."

Alice's mouth was dry. The words wouldn't come.

TOO LATE!

Fleur went on. "It's strange how I've kept putting it off, thinking, 'next year.' Well, today I met Sarah Suroor. Remember what a big star she used to be in films? In those days a siren simply couldn't have children. She'd have lost her public. Now, Sarah is just a dumpy singing woman, eternally occupied with those disgusting dogs she drags everywhere with her. She's lost her looks and her glamour and her career, as every one does in the end. She might just as well have had children. Poor thing, she's so alone—none of her marriages lasted."

Alice made a strangled sound. Fleur jumped up and looked at her closely.

"Come, Alice, you lie down on the chaise. You look as if the heat had gotten you. And here I was talking away, so concentrated on my own affairs that I didn't pay any attention to you. I'll go get you some cold water."

As Fleur turned to the water cooler, she glanced up and saw Alice, in the mirror, make a furtive gesture, hiding the yellow paper of the telegram in her bosom.

So much Fleur knew. She straightened, and mutely held out here hand for the telegram. Alice gave it to her without words. Fleur read it.

"Maurice killed instantly on location trying to save a green stunt man in an auto crashup. Break the news gently to Fleur. Signed Jim."

Alice caught her as she fainted.

in a night spot, and while the men remained until daylight, the girls had felt immediately friendly to each other. When Maurice was in Hollywood, Fleur spent much of her leisure with Jim and Alice.

When the offer to play together in a Summer theater in Hollywood had come, Jim and Alice had decided it would be great fun. It wasn't a bad idea to show the film capital what they could do, Jim reasoned.

Today, Jim had gone on location with Maurice, and his understudy carried the matinee performance. It was so hot that the attendance was not large. As they did so frequently, the four planned to have dinner together. It was a special dinner tonight, the wedding anniversary of Fleur and Maurice.

AT BRADENTON, FLA., Bob Quinn, president of the Bees, is doing some spring training on his own account as he prepares for the arrival of Eddie Miller on Friday. Bob is tuning up on some of his most convincing phrases, and is checking up on cases of young men who have blasted their baseball futures by becoming holdouts.

Miller has let it be known that he is NOT satisfied with the contract that has been tendered to him by the Bees. He insists that the club boost the present figure before he will sign on the dotted line.

I do not know how much money the Bees are willing to pay Miller, but I do believe that the brilliant young shortstop is entitled to more salary than he received in 1934. I think Bob Quinn will agree with me on this point. The debate on Friday in one of the shady rooms of the Manatee River Hotel will be in regard to how big a money boost Miller is entitled to.

I was at the Bees' camp at Bradenton last spring when Miller opened his fight for a regular berth with the club. Eddie had come to the Bees from the Yankees' farm at Kansas City. After watching Miller work out for a week, I could not understand how Ed Barrow ever permitted Eddie to get away from him.

"What do you think of Miller?" Bob Quinn asked me one day as the little shortstop dove for a sharp hit ball, clutched it in his hands as the skidded around on his stomach, and then tossed to second base for the start of a sensational double play.

"Miller is a sure thing to make good at shortstop," I replied. "Miller is the second shortstop I have touted. The other was Everett Scott. When Scott came up with Bill Carrigan's Red Sox, he impressed me instantly by his fielding ability, baseball sense and ability to hit in the clutch. I predicted he would win the regular shortstop berth from Henie Wagner and become one of the great stars of baseball. He did. I am now willing to go out on a long limb with Miller."

Quinn agreed that Miller looked like the rookie "find" of the 1935 season.

MILLER BECAME ONE of the dazzling stars of the National League overnight. His brilliant fielding and vest pocket catches, executed in true Rabbit Maranville style, captivated those persons who saw him in action.

Tony Cuccinello and Eddie Miller became one of the fastest double play combinations in baseball. Casey Stengel sat on the bench and chuckled as he watched Miller execute plays that won games.

Cuccinello suffered an injury sliding into second base, and was out of the game for a number of weeks. This slowed Miller down a bit, but the youngster carried on better than the average run of shortstops.

With Cuccinello back in the lineup again, a high, lazy fly was lofted towards left field. At the crack of the bat Miller whirled and went racing for the ball.

Al Simmons, playing left field, came forward intent upon making the catch. Simmons weighs close to 195 pounds, and is a big, lumbering fellow.

Perhaps nobody yelled as to whether Miller or Simmons was to take the ball, and if they did it is possible that neither Eddie nor Al heard the cry.

Casey Stengel jumped to his feet as he saw a crash between the two players was certain. In the stands the fans shuddered as Simmons and Miller collided.

Eddie didn't get up. One of his legs had cracked up in the crash. He was carried off the field, rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and when he was able to hobble around on crutches it was announced Miller would be unable to play ball for the remainder of the season.

The Reds, in a desperate effort to hold off the late rush of the Cardinals, purchased Simmons for his batting punch. Al cut in on a World Series mello, and deeply regretted that Eddie Miller could not have gone through the season uninjured.

MILLER HAS informed Casey Stengel that his injured leg is all right again.

If Miller irons out his contract difficulties with Bob Quinn, he will have Sisti working beside him at second base, with Cuccinello at third and Scarsella at first base.

Miller is young enough to have his injured leg make a complete recovery, while he is not the type to worry mentally over something that happened last summer.

Quinn and Stengel will try to give their infield more replacement strength. Buddy Hassett, Rabbit Warstler and Rowell will be available if needed.

The Bees had no place for Debs Garms who was sold outright to the Pirates. Garms carries the best wishes of Casey Stengel and members of the Bees. Garms was always a good hitter, and a conscientious player. His weakness is fielding. He was tried at third base and in the outfield, and was always a fielding risk.

Frankie Frisch is probably relying upon Garms as a utility man and as a pinch hitter.

Frisch will do a great deal of experimenting at Pittsburgh this year. Frankie knows the weaknesses in the Pirates, and will make drastic changes in an effort to bolster up the strength of the club.

ROSS BARS LAMPORTE FROM ALL BRUIN GAMES

Manager Art Ross' ire became evident in the form of an official protest to President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League today as the Bruins vengefully awaited the arrival of the Detroit Red Wings at the Garden.

Ross singled out Referee Norman Lamporte as the target, urging President Calder to keep this official out of all Bruins games in the future. Lamporte worked the Bruins-Red Wings game in the Motor City Sunday night when the Boston club went down to defeat. Evidently, Ross didn't like the way the game was handled and then the weather didn't help to put the B's manager in a sociable mood.

Outfoxed by the weather yesterday, the Bruins had a full day by gambling on conditions, and as a result will not have the edge on the Tiny Thompson array that was anticipated.

Their flagship was chartered yesterday to bring the entire squad to Boston in four hours and eliminate the overnight sleeper. Conditions, though were so bad that the plane was grounded, and at 4:38, last night the disappointed charges of Weston Adams had to hop a rattler for an overnight jaunt which did not bring them into Boston until this morning.

Although tired, the players are still looking forward to this evening's affair, as they wish to settle several matters.

The basic reason for the festing on the part of the Bruins is that they feel they were tossed around considerably in the Motor City, last Sunday night in their 6 to 3 loss to the CUP IN DANGER.

Little Chance Left To Catch Bruins' Ace

MONTREAL, March 5 (AP)—Although it hardly seems possible anyone can beat out Milt Schmidt of the Bruins for the National Hockey League scoring leadership, four of his teammates are doing everything they can to make the race interesting.

While Schmidt was held to a single point last week and thus boosted his season's tally to 45 points, four of his team members—Roy Conacher, Woody Dumart, Bill Cowley and Bobby Bauer—gathered a total of 22 points.

That put Dumart into a second place tie with Bryan Hextall of the Rangers at 39 and Cowley into a tie for fourth with Neil Colville of the Rangers at 36.

Bauer is hanging around the leaders with 35, and Conacher is in a 14th place tie with Hector (Toe) Blake of Montreal.

Conacher was the week's scoring leader, garnering eight points on five goals and three assists, so he may not be safely counted out yet. Cowley collected six points. Dumart got two goals and three assists for five points, while Bauer was getting three more.

Lupien Shows How

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5 — It may not be cricket for a Boston College grad to puff Harvard, but when Old Jawn sends out a ball player like Ulysses Lupien, then the rules just have to be waived.

If there has been one standout in these early days of practice in the Red Sox camp here, it has been the Crimson Wolf.

"He acts like Joe Judge around that old first sack," say the Sox veterans. "No fancy Dan, but a ball player's ball player."

Lupien does a nice job of fielding, that's true, but what do we care about fielders?

SHINES AT PLATE

It's Lupien's hitting that we like.

If fielding were the sole basis of a big leaguer, then Paul Campbell or Art Mahan would be the Red Sox first baseman and Jimmy Foxx would be in Louisville or Little Rock.

No, it's what you do up at that old dish that counts that we like. And that's just where Lupien shines.

Chunky, powerful, he steps into the ball like Heine Manush used to do in his palmy Detroit days. Old Heine himself is working out with the Sox here, and admits the kid looks the part of a real hitter.

SENT TO SCRANTON

He must be.

Look at his record.

In 1938 he led the Eastern (Ivy) Intercollegiate League in hitting with a .475 mark. Of course, that's only for the league games, 12 of them, but there isn't much room for improvement. And last spring he again led the loop, this time with an average of .450.

Upon graduation he cast his lot with the Sox, and they sent him to Scranton in the Eastern League.

Friends persuaded him not to go.

"That's the grave yard of all hitters," they said, and they knew what they were talking about.

The fences are far away in Scranton, the lights are bad, and that Eastern League pitching is very, very good.

DIDN'T STOP "LUPIEN"

They pointed out that Joe Gallagher, who was the sensation of the Yankees' camp last spring after burning up Kansas City in '38, hit only 267 there in 1937.

That didn't bother "Lupe". He went just the same and in his first shot at organized ball and his first try at night ball, he belted 330 in the 90 games he played from June to September.

Only four men in the league had a better average and George Stollor, the leader, had a mark of only .335. That's the same Stollor who is doing so well with Brooklyn this spring.

Ulysses is one of four baseball playing brothers. Al and Ted both played for Harvard, while Frank, probably the best of them all, did his starring at Tufts.

HARVARD FROWNS

But this Ulysses Lupien, who captained both baseball and basketball at Harvard, will uphold the family prestige, all right, even though his alma mater might not be proud of him. Harvard, you know, still frowns on its sons who enter professional athletics.

In my time, only Jorko Conlon and Charlie Devens left its cloistered halls for the big top, though in the old days a fellow by the name of Walter Clarkson was some cutup as a major league pitcher.

Lupien won't make the Red Sox this year. In fact, he won't make it for several years unless they dig up a rule preventing Jimmy Foxx from bringing his bat to the plate.

MAY GO TO LOUISVILLE

But instead of Little Rock, where he was headed for before training started, it wouldn't be surprising if he landed at Louisville this spring.

That would be quite a jump for the kid, hopping over experienced Red Sox farmhands like Paul Campbell and Art Mahan and making himself No. 1 substitute for Jimmy Foxx.

And well bet, if and when the time comes that he does take Foxx's place, that those 10,000 sons of Harvard not only will be out cheering for him but that they will donate a Lupien bat for the most improved hitter at Harvard.

Rebuild Beehive

BRADENTON, Fla., March 5 — National League Field in Boston will undergo a rapid remodeling and be made considerably shorter, according to a surprise announcement by President Bob Quinn of the Bees.

Work on bringing the outfield barriers within easier reach of the hitters will commence at once. N. L. Field will have its facelift completed by April 13.

In general, the fences will be brought in 25 feet. The right field foul line, now 378 feet, will be 350 feet; the left field foul line, now 368 feet, will be reduced to 350 feet. The steel bleacher stands in left field and centerfield will be removed. The juvy box in right will remain as is but a four-foot wall will be extended from the 25-foot wall in center, forming a pasture in front of the juvy box.

IT'S IN THERE! Les Scarsella is showing the stuff that will put him on first base in more ways than one. Les is labeled to take away Buddy (When Irish Eyes Are Smilin') Hassett's first base job on what he has shown to date in the Bees' Bradenton, Fla., training camp. Phil Masi is doing the catching.

Cleanliness... is Your Barman's Creed

YOUR bar man is a reputable business man. Next to his desire to bring you the finest quality products that he can obtain is his wish to serve you as you would be served at home. Cleanliness, above all else, is his creed. Glasses, bar top, taps and pipes must be immaculately clean and sanitary at all times. If you will recall, the most characteristic act of any bar man is the instinctive sweep of a

Bruins Must Nip Wings to Hold Chance in Race

the Wings. The boys were given quite a going over and in view of the fact that they do not intend seeing none of the Wings after tonight, many personal issues figure to be settled.

And if this factor was not bothersome enough, the Rangers popped up with a win in Chicago Sunday night to go three points ahead of the Bruins to complete the picture. Flash Hoffer, sent home from Toronto, was to have to perform tonight with Art Jackson taking the control off.

As the situation now stands the Rangers have only three games to play—two with the Bruins and one with the Americans. If the Rangers win all three, the Bruins cannot possibly hope to overtake the New Yorkers and will have to resign the Prince of Wales Trophy to the Patrickmen.

If the Bruins win tonight they can still stand a good chance of winding up on top.

FIGURES TELL STORY

Forecasting tonight's game for a moment, the situation is this:

If the Bruins can split with the Rangers all they will need is two victories, a tie and can afford to lose one in the four games outside of the Patrick series.

This should not be too difficult, for, of these four games, three will be played at home against the Red Wings, Les Canadiens and the Americans. The remaining tilt is against the Americans in New York.

By splitting with the Rangers and winning two, tying one and losing one in their remaining six games the Rossmen will wind up deadlocked with the Rangers at 65 games and win the Prince of Wales Trophy because of the fact that they have fewer tie games.

The final standings would be:

	W	L	T	Pts
Bruins	30	12	5	65
Rangers	27	11	9	65

But that's looking a bit too far ahead, for the Wings will not be too soft despite the 10 to 3 loss they received on their last visit. As a matter of fact, the Detroit outfit have whipped the Bruins three times this year, which is a feat no other club in the league has been able to accomplish except for the Rangers who have battered that figure by one.

And those Wings are evidently hot—they must be to slap six goals past Frankie Brimsek, a stunt that was turned in only once this year and naturally, it was the Rangers who performed the trick.

BRUINS PREFER OPEN PLAY

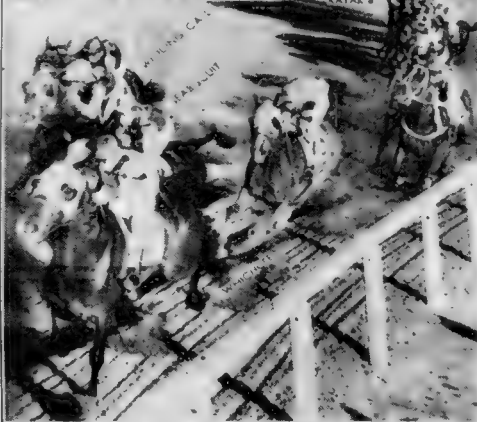

The question tonight centers around the type of game Detroit will play. If they employ the wide open style that brought victory last Sunday night everything will be fine, for even though the B's were downed they much prefer this type of hockey to the close-checking game employed by the Blackhaws.

The Bruins figure to be flying despite the story out of Detroit that they had gone stale. This seems far from true, for prior to that affair the Rossmen had won two in a row, and one setback can't determine whether our local heroes are in a slump.

With just two weeks of the season remaining they should be at their peak, for if they are off now it's going to be too bad once the Stanley Cup games start.

TURNING FOR HOME

FOR A MERE $100,000.—Seabiscuit's return—another rebuttal to the theory that they never come back—is pictured here as the great thoroughbred turned in one of the greatest races of his career. Breaking from the starting gate in a field of 13 horses, Seabiscuit gets off to a good start. Jockey Pollard keeps him in the clear all the way as Whichcote sets the early pace. Kayak 2nd and Wedding Call make bids, Seabiscuit's stable mate eventually moving into second place as the wonder horse crosses the finish line with something in reserve. Whichcote took third, Wedding Call outgamed War Plumeage in final struggle for fourth.

B. C. PLAYS IDAHO; MAY MEET CENTRE

That Boston College has definitely gone big-time was indicated with announcement by John P. Curley, graduate manager of athletics, that the University of Idaho had agreed to play the Eagles in Boston Oct. 19.

Besides the Tulane University game in New Orleans, La., Sept. 28 which was announced a few weeks ago, the new teams on the B. C. card are, Manhattan, Georgetown and Idaho, with a game pending for Sept. 21 which will be the season's opener.

Centre College was originally booked to face the Eagles here Sept. 28, but the signing of Tulane resulted in a date muddle. However, it is expected that officials at Centre College may find a way out and the game will be played in all probability on Sept. 21.

All games will be played at home with the exception of Tulane.

Final arrangements for Idaho to come here next fall were completed by John Curley last night.

It will be the first time in the history that Boston College has played a far west team. Idaho University is a member of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, which includes Oregon U., Oregon State, Washington State, University of California, University of Washington, Stanford, University of Montana, University of California at Los Angeles and University of Southern California.

The schedule:
Sept. 21, pending; Sept. 28, Tulane at New Orleans; Oct. 5, permanently open; Oct. 12, Temple here; Oct. 19, Idaho here; Oct. 26, St. Anselm here; Nov. 2, Manhattan here; Nov. 9, Boston University here; Nov. 16, Georgetown here; Nov. 23, Auburn here; Nov. 30, Holy Cross here.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Dr. John Bain Sutherland resigned as head football coach at Pittsburgh after 15 years. Pitt's "clean up" plan created "intolerable conditions" Sutherland said.

THREE YEARS AGO—Three thousand dollar Hollywood, Fla., open golf tournament won by Dick Metz, Chicago, who shot course record, 63, on second round for 272 total.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Dixie Howell, Alabama halfback and hero of Rose Bowl football game, signed to play baseball with Detroit Tigers in 1935.

Harvard's quintet will play the first game of two Ivy contests this week against Penn at the Harvard gym tomorrow night. In a preliminary contest the frosh will face the Boston Boy's Club of Charlestown.

Harvard's second game this week will be a return engagement with Yale on Saturday night. Yale defeated Harvard 52-42 earlier in the week and the Crimson will be out for revenge.

Penn succumbed to the Crimson earlier in the season by the count of 47-45 in a thrilling overtime game.

Penn's outstanding player is Henry Soleliac, a 6 foot 2 inch soph. Soleliac has tallied 90 points in nine games and is considered by Coach Wes Fesler, of Harvard as one of the most promising players in the league.

Ross Hahn, a junior and former all-State star from Indiana who has rung up 53 points, will team with Sid Levinson at forwards. Tony Caputo and Bill Hook will be at guards.

Coach Wes Fesler will not announce his starting lineup until game time. Of late he has been alternating between Ed Buckley and Joe Romano as his starting guards along with Chris Finegan. Bill Webber and Capt. Charlie Lutz will team at forward and Sam White at center. Webber has been in a prolonged slump, but in the last game against Yale he found his eye again and may set the pace tomorrow night.

ENGLISH SONJA—London's Pamela Prior, the British empire's finest figure and exhibition skater, headlines the European Ice Revue which moves into the Garden next week. Miss Prior has never been defeated in skating competition.

Erna Returns Here to Aid Finnish Fund

Miss Erna Andersen, colorful Norwegian skater and rival of Sonja Henie, will be among the stars who will appear at the ice carnival of the Boston Skating Club at the M.I.R. quarters on Soldiers Field rd. beginning Thursday night.

Miss Andersen made her first Boston appearance at the Silver Skates Derby of the Record-American, when she was hailed as one of the greatest skaters in the world.

In addition to Miss Andersen, Joan Tozer, Polly Blodgett, Gretchen Merrill and other fancy skating stars of the Boston Skating Club will appear in the carnival.

The profits of the show will be donated to the Finnish Relief Fund and to the Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital.

There will be a dress rehearsal of the ice carnival tonight. There will be performances Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, while there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees.

German Cyclists Face Each Other

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, German cyclists who spent 44 days journeying to the United States, will ride against each other in Buffalo's six-day bike race, beginning Thursday night. Promoter Charles Murray announced.

Kilian has been paired with Henry (Cocky) O'Brien of San Jose, Cal., while Vopel's teammate is Cecil Yates of Chicago.

Ask $300,000 for Choice Race Dates

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP)—For $300,000—to be paid to the Democratic State Central Committee—an official of Hollywood Park said his track was offered California's coveted winter horse racing dates during 1940 and 1941.

George F. Young, vice-president of the Hollywood Turf Club created a sensation yesterday as he testified before a special State Senate investigating committee that such terms were offered him by Norman W. Church, owner of a string of race horses.

"It was last summer," Young declared. "Harold Anderson (operator of concessions at Hollywood Park) told me Norman Church wanted $100,000 for the Democratic central committee.

"Two days later I met Church and Ralph Evans (then secretary to Gov. Culbert L. Olson) at the track. I talked to Church alone. He wanted $300,000 for 1940. I told him we had no money like that."

WANTED FUN BOOST

Several nights later, he went on, Church telephoned him.

"He told me he wanted a $25,000 contribution to the Democratic central committee when the proposed 1940 dates were announced," Young said. "He said he wanted $50,000 when the season started. He wanted an additional $25,000 later, then $50,000 at the close of the season.

"Not only that but he told me he wanted the same amounts in 1941—a total of $300,000.

"I refused flatly. I heard no more about it."

Young testified a few minutes after Governor Olson made a surprise and voluntary appearance and announced that "Norman Church does not run the racing commission."

Last week Chairman D. Jack Metzger, Republican from Red Bluff, told the committee:

"Norman Church told me he put $50,000 into Governor Olson's campaign for the sole purpose of controlling racing boards in California."

Church, in a signed statement, called the charges "absolutely untrue."

YOUNG ON STAND

Another witness was Edward B. Young, chairman of the State Racing Commission, which has authority to regulate racing dates. On the stand, he addressed a question to Earl B. Giese, Hollywood club president, in the audience:

"Do you remember coming to my office last summer and telling me of a proposition that the winter dates would be granted if the club paid $100,000, and do you remember I told you that if I heard of such a deal the club would never get a winter season?"

"Those were your words," Giese answered, adding, "and I don't want it supposed that the club ever intended to meet the demand."

Training Camps

Bill McKechnie's Lonely These Days Chapman Teaches Indians to Slide

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla.—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds hardly knows what to do with himself since one of his "problem children" has left the club and the other has reformed.

Lee Griesom is a problem for Joe McCarthy of the Yankees now, and Red Barrett, one of Bill's main worries the past two years, "has really settled down to business." A wife and baby may be the reason, but McKechnie calls Red "the biggest surprise" of the year.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—There will be many a slip during the Cleveland Indians' training, but Manager Oscar Vitt has planned it that way.

For the first time in more than 12 years, a sliding pit is part of the tribe's training equipment. Teachers will be Ben Chapman, the club's outstanding base runner, and Vitt himself.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — Roy Joiner, 31-year-old hurler who once toiled for the Chicago Cubs and who had a great season at Jersey City last year, doesn't think his age will keep from sticking with the New York Giants.

"Jim Turner was a star on the Pacific Coast when I was playing a high school ball," says Joiner.

Jim Turner "In the last few years, few really young pitchers have stepped from the minors into the majors and stuck there."

Manager Bill Terry agrees. He is counting on Joiner as a possible starter, or at least as his relief man.

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Connie Mack thinks Rookie Al Rubeling will "fill the order" at third base for the Philadelphia Athletics.

"He impresses me as a slow starter," said Mack. "I think he'll get better as time goes on and even though he won't ever have a great arm, he'll throw well enough to get by."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Buddy Rosar, whose job with the New York Yankees is merely to try to out Bill Dickey from the regular catching spot, will be ready to step in, if his turn comes.

He has been doing some terrific hitting in practice, is strong, agile and down to his playing weight.

Buddy is very proud of his condition.

Another Buddy, Blair, who will play third until Red Rolfe comes to terms, has the first sackers worried by his wild throwing, even though Manager Joe McCarthy has been giving him special coaching.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Bucky Harris isn't claiming first place in the American League for his Washington Senators, but he says they're the best Washington club he has coached since 1925.

The acquisition of Gerald Walker and Jimmy Polah have raised Bucky's hopes, and he is proud of first-baseman Jimmy Waddell's improvement.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Just to prove they're still the Dodgers, one squad of Brooklyn ball players has managed to equal a modern major league record in a training camp practice game.

The "Dressens" sent 19 men to the plate in one inning against young Sam Nahem, scored 14 runs and won the game 18-4.

Only once since 1906 has a major league club had 19 men at bat in a championship game. The Chicago Cubs did that in 1922.

Dusek Has Plan For Managoff

Ernie Dusek, wise old veteran of the wrestling wars and one of the roughest men in the game, thinks he has an effective protection against Bobby Managoff's lightning-like dropkick and doesn't believe it will help the young Armenian much when they meet tomorrow night.

In the other headline match, Yvon Robert, former champion of the world, reappears here to take on Tom Casey, husky young Irishman.

Dusek is enthused over his new discovery.

"I don't know why I never thought of it before," he says. "It's so good that I predict Managoff won't get across a single dropkick."

He remains very mysterious, however, about his discovery.

Managoff, meanwhile, who is learning the tricks fast says he'll work the drop kick at every opportunity.

In the semi-final, Pedro Brazil, champion of South America, meets Les Ryann, former Fordham footballer, while preliminaries will include Gino Garibaldi, sturdy Italian, vs. Ernest Franz Heffner, bad man champion, and Ralph Garibaldi vs. Tony Jordan.

Pantano Named B. U. Captain

The Chelsea monopoly on Boston University's basketball captaincies continued unabated when it was announced today that George Pantano had been elected leader of the Terrier hoop squad for next winter.

Pantano is the fifth Chelsea boy to win the honor in the last six years. Freddie Garabedian was the first Red Devil to receive the coveted job and Al Rabinovitz followed him the next year. Russ Lawry, then, temporarily broke the string by stepping in for one season but he was followed by Solly Nechem and Jack Rotman with George Pantano following along today.

Paul Brown of Newton was the newly-elected captain of the 1940-41 Boston University hockey team. He is a forward and chalked up 14 points this season.

Boston After Dark

protocol was pointing out the other night . . . It may be different, he was saying, with the Japs . . . But if the skipper of the Graf Spee had not committed suicide the chances are that he would have been forgiven in Germany . . . Of course they wouldn't have pinned any medals on the poor guy, but our navy friend was saying that he thought the captain had an excellent chance, in this changing world, of not being liquidated.

AFTER RACKING our brains to make up the song Ozie Nelson uses as his signature song and calls "Loyal Sons of Rutgers" we finally remembered . . . For all the tea in china, "Loyal Sons of Rutgers" is none other than the beautiful old hymn "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" (Cast their gleam across the waves—some poor dying, struggling seamen, they may rescue—they may save!) . . . We shall have to ask Skipper Tom Horgan, of the A.P., to listen in and verify our discovery . . . Ozie played the tune with a slow, measured tempo, but it's impossible to disguise the melody . . . (Shiver our davits, if it didn't just come to mind that Skipper Horgan wouldn't know one tune from another—unless it was "Bell-Bottomed Trouser.")

BUT THE GOOD SKIPPERS NAME came up at Cobina Wright's party . . . Someone related that Mr. Horgan had been on the phone early Sunday morning to recruit a paint-scrapping party at the boatyard where the Horgan yawl is hauled out . . . That's a positive sign of spring . . . Tackling is very much on the up-beat for the coming year by the way . . . This was indicated at both the Boat Show in New York and the Sportsmen's and Boat Show here . . .
